RUSH NEW TANKS TO LIBYA FRONT

Westinghouse Gets 4th Defense Order

PLANT TO BUILD AIRPLANE GAS TANKS FOR U. S.

Vega Aircraft Corporation Awards $725,000 Contract To Company Here.

SECOND IN TWO DAYS

New Order Follows One For $45,000 In Film Trays For Army Air Corps.

A $725,000 order for 1,000 auxiliary gasoline tanks for warplanes was awarded today to the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, giving the firm its fourth big defense contract in the past eight weeks and bringing its total defense orders to $6,693,975.

C. G. Hillier, who is in charge of the plant's defense business, verified the order after the award was announced by the Vega Aircraft corporation, Burbank, Cal.

The contract was the Westinghouse plant's second defense order in two days. A $15,000 contract for film-processing trays for the army air corps was received yesterday.

Officials at the Vega plant said the $725,000 order included approximately $25,000 for installing equipment to enable the Mansfield firm to handle the order.

The auxiliary tank contract was one of the first awarded by the big California plant which builds Boeing warplanes. Vega officials said about 67 per cent of the work on the warplanes was being subcontracted.

C. L. Van Derau, works manager at the Westinghouse plant, said today he was unable to estimate the number of employes who will be needed to turn out the order for gas tanks, but he added that a number of employes will be put to work on the project as soon as the plant is equipped for the specialized work.

Tooling of the plant, or preparing it to handle the order, will start immediately, Van-Derau said. Operations to be carried out here will include sheet metal fabrication, welding, and assembly.

Actual manufacturing operations will not be started on any of the Westinghouse plant's four defense orders until after the first of the year. New equipment will be necessary to turn out war materials and it must be installed before production can be started, company officials said.

QUAKE AT SEA

Worst Temblor Since 1755 Causes Small Damage.

LISBON, Portugal—(AP)—Available reports today still indicated only sight damage was caused by yesterday's earthquake, the most violent recorded here since 1755.

The Madeira and Azores islands also were shaken, but the epicenter apparently was in the Atlantic where its full force was spent harmlessly. Reports from the islands said no casualties and only slight damage were caused there.

Chimneys were toppled and wires broken by the quake, and many persons fainted from fright.

In the 1755 quake 50,000 persons were killed in Lisbon.

U. S. Spanks Mansfield's 'Barnyard Airport'

No, this is not a picture of a barnyard. It shows Edward James, operations manager for the Harrington Air Service, looking over the deplorable condition of one of the muddy runways at Mansfield's municipal airport. This is a semi-annual condition that has plagued pilots for years, making take-offs and landings hazardous. It is the sole reason why government inspectors of the Civil Aeronautics administration yesterday wrote "unsatisfactory" on their report after a survey of the field and immediately telephoned Washington with the result that 24 fliers from Argentina, who were scheduled to arrive here Dec. 29 for advanced instruction, will be sent to Lockport, Ill., a city of 20,000 population, but which has a modern port with hard-surfaced runways and night lighting facilities.

City Slapped for Airport Mud and Had It Coming

U. S. Sidetracks South American Pilots Coming Here For Training Because of Muddy Runways.

Mansfield's air future suffered another jolt today—the latest in a series of blows to the development of private and commercial aviation.

This time it was the federal government that frowned on the condition of the municipal airport runways and as the result transferred the training of a group of South American pilots, already en route here, to a city half the size of Mansfield.

Inspectors of the Civil Aeronautics administration announced the decision following a survey of the city's municipal airport yesterday afternoon.

The Argentine fliers—24 in all—who were scheduled to arrive in the city for advanced flying instruction Dec. 29, will be sent to Lockport, Ill., a city of 20,000 population, because U. S. officials said the town offers better port facilities than those provided by Mansfield.

Lockport, the inspectors advised, has a fully developed airport, including hard-surfaced runways, night lighting facilities, and other municipally owned equipment now being used by the Lewis School of Aeronautics.

Their objection, they said, was not with the flight school conducted by James R. Harrington, unofficial airport manager. Neither were they critical of the instruction, shops, barracks or equipment.

In fact, they had only words of praise for these facilities, complimenting the city, which they asserted, was fortunate to have available more and better training personnel and equip-

SENTENCE 8 IN MORALS CASE

Common Pleas and Probate Judges Act in Butler Charges and Immoral Show.

Seven persons received workhouse sentences today in Richland county common pleas and probate courts and a 12-year-old Butler girl was sent to the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware after they pleaded guilty to charges filed in two morals cases.

Taken before Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer, Dewey Jones, 42; his wife, Mrs. Violet Jones, 43, both of Butler; John Coulter, 21, who said he roomed at 207½ West Fourth street, Mansfield; and Raymond Skelly, 19, Perrysville, R. D. 1, pleaded guilty to charges of contributing to the delinquency of the Jones' 12-year-old daughter and were sentenced to the Columbus and Toledo workhouses.

Jones and his wife received six-month sentences while the two youths were sentenced to 90 days in the Columbus workhouse. Jones will be taken to Columbus to serve his term and his wife will go to Toledo.

Bullitt Assigned To Represent FDR In Near East.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— William C. Bullitt, a seasoned diplomat and an outspoken foe of the Axis, had a new assignment today as special representative of President Roosevelt in the Near East.

The former ambassador to Soviet Russia and France will cover a vast area along the Mediterranean and Red seas, including the newest theaters of war in Libya, and report to the president on developments and needs of the Allies.

This marks the second time that Mr. Roosevelt has sent Bullitt on a special traveling assignment. The first was in 1933 when the Philadelphian visited a number of European capitals gathering information preparatory to a world economic conference which the president later called.

Coal Tonnage on Lake Erie Docks At New All-Time High.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— The ore and coal exchange reported today that Lake coal tonnage reached a new all-time seasonal high last week when the Lake Erie docks dumped 1,750,000 tons into vessels for cargo and fuel.

The week's tonnage raised the seasonal figure to about 49,000,000 tons. The previous seasonal high was 48,111,000 tons last year.

FDR PUTS 'LIE' BRAND ON STORY

Says U. S. Forced to Apologize To Chile For Time Article on Late President.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt accused Time magazine of printing a "disgusting lie" about the late President Pedro Aguirre Cerda of Chile, who died yesterday, and said the article was furnishing ammunition today to Axis propagandists in South America.

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that the United States government "has been forced to apologize" to Chile for the article in question, and spoke of the "general indignation and disgust" which it engendered.

Time's editor, Henry R. Luce, replied he considered "the president's words are unwarranted by the facts and unwise as an attack on a free and honest press," even though they may have been influenced by "pressure of international politics."

"In view of President Roosevelt's extraordinary outburst," Luce said, "Time will later make a complete report," on the article.

Loses His Nose In Plane Crash, But It's Back on

DES MOINES, Ia—(INS)—Henry Clergy, 44, head of a Des Moines flying service, was in a hospital today with his nose back on his face, although it was completely severed in an accident south of the municipal airport yesterday.

Clergy and a companion were injured when their plane went out of control and crashed to the ground.

Clergy's nose was discovered in the wreckage of the airplane shortly after the accident, rushed to the hospital and grafted back on the flyer's face.

It was not known whether the grafting operation would be successful.

U. S. CITIZENS AGAIN TOLD TO LEAVE JAPAN

Embassy Also Urges Nationals To Get Out of Occupied Areas In China.

JAPS DECLINE COMMENT

Say Appeal Speaks For Itself as Tojo Confers With Emperor on Talks.

(By United Press)

TOKYO — The United States embassy, acting on orders from Washington, made a new urgent appeal to all Americans today to evacuate Japan and occupied China.

The Japanese thought it was a new pressure move to influence negotiations now proceeding in Washington.

Premier Hideki Tojo conferred with Emperor Hirohito, presumably upon the progress of the Japanese-American conversations there.

Government quarters laconically said that the American evacuation appeal deserved no comment and was "the U. S. government's own business." They said the appeal "speaks for itself."

Some informed sources said the move did not necessarily reflect developments at Washington which "must be viewed from the long range viewpoint."

However, the press gave prominence to pessimistic reports in Washington over the outcome of the talks.

It was understood that Americans in French Indo-China as well as those in Japan and Japanese controlled territory in China have been urged to get out.

The foreign office announced that the liner Tatuta Maru has delayed its departure until Dec. 2 when it will sail from Yokohama, arriving at Los Angeles the 14th and Balboa the 24th. The sailing was delayed, it was understood, to accommodate Americans leaving in response to the embassy appeal.

Bituminous Director Tells Ickes Rules Still Needed.

WASHINGTON (INS) - Bituminous Coal Director Howard A. Gray told Secretary of Interior Ickes in his annual report today that there is a need for continued market regulation to stabilize the soft coal industry, despite increased production caused by the defense program.

The report, covering activities for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941, said that the history of the industry and a study of current conditions show that the increased demand for coal would be insufficient as a substitute for the basic stabilization provided by the bituminous coal act.

Minimum prices and marketing rules and regulations which maintain a "cost-floor" under the sale of coal have been established under this law.

British Forces Smash Into Big Desert Battle

Roving Axis Column Drives Into Egypt, Met By Bombing Attack; South Africa, India Units Seize Italian Oasis; Nazis Break Moscow Line.

(By United Press)

CAIRO—British tank reinforcements smashed into the Libyan battle front today in an all out attempt to win the vital battle of Sidi Rezegh, in the desert south of Tobruk.

Although the Sidi Rezegh sector remained the scene of the "decisive" battle in Libya, the British communique reported two other important developments:

1—Capture by South African tanks and Indian troops of the Italian oasis of Gialo, 200 miles east of Egypt, where 200 prisoners and much war equipment were taken.

2—A drive across the Libyan frontier into Egypt by a roving Axis tank column which moved up the border in a diversion attack but was being continuously bombed by British airplanes and had lost one-third of its strength.

The Sidi Rezegh area, where the British are attempting to join all of their strength in a knockout blow, "remains the main battle front and another heavy clash" was believed to be developing this afternoon.

In regard to the German thrust into Egypt, the communique said:

"In an effort to divert our attention and forces from the main operation, the enemy staged a raid on a substantial scale along a general axis from Gabr Saleh eastward across the frontier wire south of Sidi Omar. British mobile columns with tanks have now been organized to deal with this diversion."

In regard to the main battlefield at Sidi Rezegh, the communique said that British infantry continued to fight forward from Tobruk.

Most important, however, appeared to be the arrival of British tank reinforcements on a battlefield where both sides had almost exhausted their armored strength in five days of furious fighting.

The British force fighting its way out from Tobruk toward Sidi Rezegh was said to have continued "steady penetration" eastward and captured more prisoners in addition to 24 enemy field guns.

"Our air forces continue to cooperate with bombing attacks on enemy motor transport and concentrations of armored fighting vehicles in the battle area," it added.

The Axis army fought desperately, striving to keep open a

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN — Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop told signers of the anti-comintern pact today that Germany already has won her campaign in the east and the war now lines up only as a fight with Britain and her "trans-Atlantic helpers."

The United States, von Ribbentrop told statesmen of the Axis and its satellite nations, remains the last powerful ally of Britain. He added that Hitler long had calculated upon the hostility of a "small clique of leaders" in the United States.

No matter whether or to what extent the United States delivers war materials to England, the outcome of the war cannot be changed, he declared. Neither, he said, is Russia in a place to make any change.

"If it should develop that there would be war between the United States on one side and Europe on the other, the responsibility is clearly on Roosevelt," von Ribbentrop said.

He added, however, that any idea of a German military attack on the United States was "Fantastic foolishness," and said that charges that Hitler planned world conquest, destruction of religion, and Nazi dominance of South America were products of delib-

Steinhardt Returns on First West Flight of Clipper.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Laurence A. Steinhardt, United States ambassador to Russia, returned to America today on the first westbound flight of a Pan-American Clipper from Africa.

The ambassador described his trip at length—including the comment that there was heavy snow even in the southern part of Russia—but he declined to discuss the war or to comment on affairs of state.

All told, there were 28 passengers aboard the clipper. Fifteen of them were airplane pilots who transferred to another plane for Miami, Fla., from where they will ferry bombers to Africa for the British.

PLAN CHANGE

Convoys To Be Reorganized For Action With British.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Naval sources today said the North Atlantic convoy system would be reorganized in the near future to provide greater cooperation between the United States and British navies.

There was a possibility that some steps would be taken to formalize joint action by the two navies to protect the convoys.

The new system, it was said, probably will be similar to that employed with noteworthy success toward the close of the last war when both British and American cargo carriers sailed in the same convoys under the escort of naval vessels of both nations.

Defense Training With Pay Planned for Employes Here

A plan whereby large numbers of furloughed workers in Mansfield may obtain training for defense jobs while getting paid a sum of $18 weekly was formulated at a conference here yesterday.

Purpose of the session was to find workers for jobs at the new Westinghouse naval ordnance plant at Canton. Representatives of the Canton company attended the meeting along with Mansfield school officials and representatives of the state employment service.

O. J. Manse, defense training director for the Canton Westinghouse plant, told the conferees that only 15 per cent of 2,000 machine operators needed at the Canton plant are available at present.

To obtain more workers, he said, Westinghouse will pay workers $18 weekly while they are being trained in Westinghouse schools.

To qualify for entering the Westinghouse schools, workers must first pass examinations, and schooling for these examinations may be obtained at either the vocational defense classes at Mansfield high school or at the NYA Resident Center at nearby Mifflin, Manse explained.

West's Suit for $687,000 In Fees Brings Probe Demands

A suit filed by Charles West, former 17th district congressman and undersecretary of the interior, for $687,000 in defense contract fees, today brought a demand from Congressman B. J. Gehrmann, Republican, of Wisconsin for immediate favorable action on his bill for investigation of "racketeering lobbyists."

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington quoted government officials as saying that the court's decision in the West suit which was filed in New York against the Empire Ordnance corporation would be watched with interest for possible bearing on the activities of former government employes seeking to influence award of defense contracts.

West claimed in his suit that the company engaged him to obtain contracts for a fee on one per cent of the gross sales of the concern's products. The company denied the allegations.

Gehrmann placed in the congressional record a Toledo Blade story about the suit, declaring:

"I want to see laws passed outlawing these racketeers or at least regulating them. My resolve is strengthened by this story. Let's clean this mess up. I ask the members to urge action by the rules committee—and the time is now."

Gehrmann said West was suing for a "fabulous sum as a commission for using his influence to secure $70,000,000 worth of defense contracts."

RUSH NEW TANKS TO LIBYA FRONT

Westinghouse Gets 4th Defense Order

PLANT TO BUILD AIRPLANE GAS TANKS FOR U. S.

Vega Aircraft Corporation Awards $725,000 Contract To Company Here.

SECOND IN TWO DAYS

New Order Follows One For $45,000 In Film Trays For Army Air Corps.

A $725,000 order for 1,000 auxiliary gasoline tanks for warplanes was awarded today to the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, giving the firm its fourth big defense contract in the past eight weeks and bringing its total defense orders to $6,693,975.

C. G. Hillier, who is in charge of the plant's defense business, verified the order after the award was announced by the Vega Aircraft corporation, Burbank, Cal.

The contract was the Westinghouse plant's second defense order in two days. A $15,000 contract for film-processing trays for the army air corps was received yesterday.

Officials at the Vega plant said the $725,000 order included approximately $25,000 for installing equipment to enable the Mansfield firm to handle the order.

The auxiliary tank contract was one of the first awarded by the big California plant which builds Boeing warplanes. Vega officials said about 67 per cent of the work on the warplanes was being subcontracted.

C. L. Van Derau, works manager at the Westinghouse plant, said today he was unable to estimate the number of employes who will be needed to turn out the order for gas tanks, but he added that a number of employes will be put to work on the project as soon as the plant is equipped for the specialized work.

Tooling of the plant, or preparing it to handle the order, will start immediately, Van-Derau said. Operations to be carried out here will include sheet metal fabrication, welding, and assembly.

Actual manufacturing operations will not be started on any of the Westinghouse plant's four defense orders until after the first of the year. New equipment will be necessary to turn out war materials and it must be installed before production can be started, company officials said.

Although the Sidi Rezegh sector remained the scene of the "decisive" battle in Libya, the British communique reported two other important developments:

1—Capture by South African tanks and Indian troops of the Italian oasis of Gialo, 200 miles east of Egypt, where 200 prisoners and much war equipment were taken.

2—A drive across the Libyan frontier into Egypt by a roving Axis tank column which moved up the border in a diversion attack but was being continuously bombed by British airplanes and had lost one-third of its strength.

The Sidi Rezegh area, where the British are attempting to join all of their strength in a knockout blow, "remains the main battle front and another heavy clash" was believed to be developing this afternoon.

In regard to the German thrust into Egypt, the communique said:

"In an effort to divert our attention and forces from the main operation, the enemy staged a raid on a substantial scale along a general axis from Gabr Saleh eastward across the frontier wire south of Sidi Omar. British mobile columns with tanks have now been organized to deal with this diversion."

In regard to the main battlefield at Sidi Rezegh, the communique said that British infantry continued to fight forward from Tobruk.

Most important, however, appeared to be the arrival of British tank reinforcements on a battlefield where both sides had almost exhausted their armored strength in five days of furious fighting.

The British force fighting its way out from Tobruk toward Sidi Rezegh was said to have continued "steady penetration" eastward and captured more prisoners in addition to 24 enemy field guns.

No matter whether or to what extent the United States delivers war materials to England, the outcome of the war cannot be changed, he declared. Neither, he said, is Russia in a place to make any change.

"If it should develop that there would be war between the United States on one side and Europe on the other, the responsibility is clearly on Roosevelt," von Ribbentrop said.

He added, however, that any idea of a German military attack on the United States was "Fantastic foolishness," and said that charges that Hitler planned world conquest, destruction of religion, and Nazi dominance of South America were products of delib-

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN — Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop told signers of the anti-comintern pact today that Germany already has won her campaign in the east and the war now lines up only as a fight with Britain and her "trans-Atlantic helpers."

The United States, von Ribbentrop told statesmen of the Axis and its satellite nations, remains the last powerful ally of Britain. He added that Hitler long had calculated upon the hostility of a "small clique of leaders" in the United States.

No matter whether or to what extent the United States delivers war materials to England, the outcome of the war cannot be changed, he declared. Neither, he said, is Russia in a place to make any change.

AMBASSADOR BACK IN U. S.

Steinhardt Returns on First West Flight of Clipper.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Laurence A. Steinhardt, United States ambassador to Russia, returned to America today on the first westbound flight of a Pan-American Clipper from Africa.

The ambassador described his trip at length—including the comment that there was heavy snow even in the southern part of Russia—but he declined to discuss the war or to comment on affairs of state.

All told, there were 28 passengers aboard the clipper. Fifteen of them were airplane pilots who transferred to another plane for Miami, Fla., from where they will ferry bombers to Africa for the British.

PLAN CHANGE

Convoys To Be Reorganized For Action With British.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Naval sources today said the North Atlantic convoy system would be reorganized in the near future to provide greater cooperation between the United States and British navies.

There was a possibility that some steps would be taken to formalize joint action by the two navies to protect the convoys.

The new system, it was said, probably will be similar to that employed with noteworthy success toward the close of the last war when both British and American cargo carriers sailed in the same convoys under the escort of naval vessels of both nations.

Norwegians Die Before Firing Squads for Espionage.

STOCKHOLM—(INS)—Five Norwegians were executed before a firing squad today after they were sentenced to death by a court martial on charges of espionage, reports from Oslo said.

Those convicted were accused of operating a secret radio, giving information to the enemy or belonging to an organization helping Norwegians to make their way to England.

STORE BURNS

Damage Set at $20,000 in Ohio Drug Company Fire.

MIDDLETOWN — (AP) — The Dow Drug company's downtown store was damaged by fire today with loss estimated by Fire Chief Elmer Reed at $20,000.

Reed said two blazes apparently broke out simultaneously, one behind a cigar counter, the other along an opposite wall.

Defense Training With Pay Planned for Employes Here

A plan whereby large numbers of furloughed workers in Mansfield may obtain training for defense jobs while getting paid a sum of $18 weekly was formulated at a conference here yesterday.

Purpose of the session was to find workers for jobs at the new Westinghouse naval ordnance plant at Canton. Representatives of the Canton company attended the meeting along with Mansfield school officials and representatives of the state employment service.

O. J. Manse, defense training director for the Canton Westinghouse plant, told the conferees that only 15 per cent of 2,000 machine operators needed at the Canton plant are available at present.

To obtain more workers, he said, Westinghouse will pay workers $18 weekly while they are being trained in Westinghouse schools.

To qualify for entering the Westinghouse schools, workers must first pass examinations, and schooling for these examinations may be obtained at either the vocational defense classes at Mansfield high school or at the NYA Resident Center at nearby Mifflin, Manse explained.

West's Suit for $687,000 In Fees Brings Probe Demands

A suit filed by Charles West, former 17th district congressman and undersecretary of the interior, for $687,000 in defense contract fees, today brought a demand from Congressman B. J. Gehrmann, Republican, of Wisconsin for immediate favorable action on his bill for investigation of "racketeering lobbyists."

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington quoted government officials as saying that the court's decision in the West suit which was filed in New York against the Empire Ordnance corporation would be watched with interest for possible bearing on the activities of former government employes seeking to influence award of defense contracts.

West claimed in his suit that the company engaged him to obtain contracts for a fee on one per cent of the gross sales of the concern's products. The company denied the allegations.

Gehrmann placed in the congressional record a Toledo Blade story about the suit, declaring:

"I want to see laws passed outlawing these racketeers or at least regulating them. My resolve is strengthened by this story. Let's clean this mess up. I ask the members to urge action by the rules committee—and the time is now."

Gehrmann said West was suing for a "fabulous sum as a commission for using his influence to secure $70,000,000 worth of defense contracts."

BRITISH RUSH NEW TANKS TO LIBYAN BATTLE

shifting four-mile gap in the British circle south of Tobruk through which to bring in supplies and as an avenue of escape if the pressure proves irresistible.

Rommel's forces were aided by air reinforcements flown in from Sicily, Crete and possibly even Germany and the Russian front.

But the British moved up fresh RAF detachments and were reported to be maintaining control of the air despite a series of dogfights with reinforced Luftwaffe units.

Inside the big ring, the fighting turned to a series of free-for-alls, mostly between small tank units, aided by truck-transported infantry and artillery. Losses were heavy on both sides and most of the original tank organizations involved were now out of action.

The British garrison at Tobruk was reported to be harrying the rear of the German position at Rezegh but its path to a juncture with the main British force was believed barred by extensive mine fields laid by the Germans and Italians in the seven months they have besieged Tobruk.

There was no new information here on the dash halfway across southern Libya of the 5th Indian division whose capture of Augila, some 225 miles from Jarabub oasis on the Egyptian border, has been announced. It was believed headed for El Agheila on the Gulf of Sidra, 200 miles distant.

Such an advance would cut the coastal road along which supplies from Tripoli move to Rommel and would also bar an Axis retreat.

Along the coast west from Gambut a New Zealand force was driving toward Tobruk. The distance is less than 50 miles and it was believed the New Zealanders are approaching the Axis siege lines outside Tobruk.

The New Zealand troops were reported in high fettle after their capture of Gambut. It was their engineers who cut the Axis pipeline supplying water to the German forces at Solum and Halfaya.

RAF protection of British transport and supply lines continued to be virtually perfect.

It was said the British goal of exterminating every enemy armored unit in North Africa is slowly but surely being realized and German air losses are mounting at a rate to equal their panzer losses.

Nazi Tanks Pierce Moscow Defense Line

MOSCOW — (AP) — A heavy German force of tanks, planes and infantry has broken through the Stalinogorsk sector east of Tula and advanced to the outskirts of the town of "V," a Pravda broadcast said today.

(The town of "V" was not further identified, but may be Venev, which lies about 40 miles northeast of the railroad town of Stalinogorsk, which was identified by the Russians for the first time yesterday as a scene of fierce fighting.)

From there, Pravda said, some German forces have swung back to the west in an attempt to encircle Tula by cutting off the highway between that munitions-making town and Serpukhov, 50 miles south of Moscow.

The newspaper said a decisive battle apparently was shaping up in the whole Tula region.

The Russians were said to be fighting to prevent a further advance in that area, where tremendous German forces have been concentrated to continue the offensive despite heavy losses.

German attacks in the Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavets areas west and southwest of Moscow were beaten back, said Pravda, the Communist party newspaper.

It was conceded that the Germans occupied several villages in the vicinity of Klin, but five villages were reported taken by Soviet cavalry and tank units in vigorous counterattacks.

Say Nazis Prepare To Raze Belgrade

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The White House disclosed today that government intelligence services had reported Germany was preparing to raze Belgrade, capital of conquered Yugoslavia, because the Nazis are convinced that the Chetnicks, Serbian guerillas, are using it as a base of operations.

The reports, Early said, according to the declaration of a high German official, declare that "the bombardment to which Belgrade has been subjected will be nothing to compare with what is now in store for the city."

"The Germans have decided to raze Belgrade, which will be surrounded by troops and exposed to bombardment by artillery and from the air. Those giving the government these reports are convinced that the Germans have decided to carry this attack on in the same way as they have done previously in the city of Labac.

Hurray! North Main Bridge Job Starts

At last! Work started today on the wooden bridge over Touby's run on North Main street. Using a big steam crane owned by the Purdy Construction company, Mansfield, the county's own road and bridge worker's will construct the $6,000 wooden bridge which has been discussed by the county and state for the past two years. Work on the job was twice delayed because the crane wasn't ready to go. But today everything was set, and the county commissioners predicted the bridge will be ready late in December if the weather is favorable.

Says U. S. Forced to Apologize To Chile For Time Article on Late President.

Bowers conveyed the regrets of the United States government to the Chilean government for an article appearing on the Nov. 17 Latin-American edition of Time.

(The United States edition of the same date stated at one juncture that Aguirre Cerda had "spent more and more time with the red wine he cultivates. Fortnight ago he was reported ill. This week his journalistic enemy, El Imparcial, called for a medical bulletin to allay "public anxiety."

(The article reported that a "political bulletin" was then issued, announcing temporary retirement from office "on account of bronchitis and grippe.)

President Roosevelt brought up the subject at the opening of his press confernece yesterday. He said he had just received word of the death of the Chilean president, and he was deeply sorry to receive the news. Then he continued:

"That brings up a disagreeable fact—that the government of the United States has been forced to apologize to the government of Chile for an article written in Time magazine—a disgusting lie which appeared in that magazine.

"It was of course immediately cabled to Chile. It arrived at the time that the president had left office in a very ill condition, and we are informed by our ambassador that this article was a notable contribution to Nazi propaganda against the United States.

"It is being widely used by the Nazi, Fascist and Falangist press.

"The episode of the article will not be easily forgotten in Chile."

ILLNESS FATAL

Albert C. Jones, 61, Ohio Brass Employe, Succumbs.

Albert C. Jones, 61, for the past 31 years associated with the Ohio Brass company, died last night at General hospital where he had been taken Sunday. He had been ill for nearly six months.

Born Aug. 24, 1880, in Tiffin, he had lived in Mansfield for 40 years, first as an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad system and then in the production department of the Ohio Brass plant.

Surviving are his widow, Daisy Ferguson Jones, a daughter, Maxine, both of Mansfield; and a brother, Frederick S., of Maplewood, N. J.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church in Tiffin.

The body was taken to the Jones Memorial where Rev David N. Roller of the First Presbyterian church will conduct services Friday at 1 p. m. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

ILLNESS OF SIX MONTHS FATAL

John Edward Fahr, 45, Was Former State Examiner.

ASHLAND — John Edward Fahr, 45, died last night at Samaritan hospital here following an illness of six months.

Born in Redhaw, Dec 31, 1895, he had been state sales tax examiner for two years.

A member of the Redhaw Evangelical church and the Masonic orders, he had served in the World war.

Surviving are an uncle, Jacob Fahr, with whom he lived in Redhaw; a sister, Mrs. Arlie Edmondson of Redhaw; and two nieces.

The body was taken to the Gilbert funeral home in Ashland to remain until tomorrow afternoon when it will be taken to the home of Mrs. Edmondson in Redhaw.

Short services at 1:15 p. m., Friday at the home will be followed by services at the Redhaw Evangelical church where Rev. Albert C. Mathias will conduct service sat 2.30 p m. Members of the American Legion will be in charge of ceremonies at the Redhaw cemetery where burial will be made.

ior high school, and W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, said they would make efforts to revise the training program here in order to meet the Westinghouse requirements.

Manse explained that training in the operation of one type of machine, rather than general machine shop work was preferred by Westinghouse in carrying out its program.

James Justice, NYA area director, said efforts will be made to revise the training program at the Mifflin NYA center in order to correspond with the Westinghouse program.

Robert Brown, of the Columbus office of the Ohio State employment service, said that Mansfield and Wooster will form the chief labor reservoirs to supply the Canton plant.

Canton and Stark county are eligible for supplying labor but there is an insufficient number of men there to fill all the jobs, he said.

The conference resulted in immediate action by Oberlander who said he plans to check the list of graduates of training in the high school vocational department to determine how many men who have completed the course here are eligible to participate in the Westinghouse program.

Certification of workers to the primary training schools here will be directed by C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the state employment service.

fore Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court and were sent to the workhouse.

James Crouch, 62, Mansfield, proprietor of the restaurant at the park, received a one-year sentence in Columbus. Pearl Crouch, 38, Mansfield, was sent to Toledo to serve a 90-day sentence, and Odie Milliner, 37, Mansfield, was ordered to Columbus for 60 days.

The trio cited after the park raid was accused of operating a place where lewd shows are presented and transporting women here from Cleveland and Toledo to participate in the shows.

Describing the Butler case as "one of the worst ever to come into this court," Probate Judge Cramer said Jones admitted enticing the two youths to the Jones home in Butler for the purpose of having immoral relations with the child. Coulter, one of the youths who was sentenced, told the court that Jones showed him a picture of the girl in a Mansfield restaurant and promised him a "date" with her if he came to Butler with the father. The youth said Jones told him the girl was 16 years old.

Held in the detention home was the Jones' 15-year-old son. No charges were filed against him, but court attaches said they would attempt to place him in a private home where he would have the proper environment.

The parents of the two children have been warned frequently by juvenile officers about conditions in their home at Butler, Judge Cramer said.

erate propaganda nurtured by the American president.

Von Ribbentrop repeated the German contention that Roosevelt was a "chief instigator" of the war, and questioned whether the American people, whom he described as sharing a long-time friendship with the German people, would "much longer tolerate his catastrophic policy."

As for England, her position has become "more than dark," he said, and he pictured a bright future for Europe with England "driven from the continent for all time."

Should war last 30 years, Europe can endure it, he said, and he coupled with that statement a warning that there may still be demands for great sacrifices.

Von Ribbentrop said that Hitler sent his armies against the Soviet "in the last moment" to forestall a plot to bring Russia into the war against Germany.

He said Hitler had obtained a copy of proceedings of a secret session of the British house of commons which he said discussed a three-sided attack on the Reich by Britain, Russia, and Yugoslavia.

Hear Charges Against Toledoan Arrested In Galion.

BUCYRUS—Hearing was continued today in the trial of Nat Coulton, alias Frank King, who was indicted Oct. 20 on a charge of possession of burglary tools as the outgrowth of his arrest at Galion in September in company with Milton Bryan. Both are being held under $3 000 bond.

Bryan, also charged with possession of burglary tools, will go on trial Thursday.

A motion by the prosecutor, Tuesday afternoon, for a directed verdict was overruled by the court and the case continued before a jury this morning.

Attorneys J D Sears and Francis Catley are representing the defendant.

The two men were arrested in a stolen truck parked near a Galion manufacturing company after a spectacular chase by Galion patrolmen.

ment than cities of comparable size.

They did however, object strenuously to the condition of the runways, which they described as hazardous to safe landings and takeoffs due to the mire.

Harrington and officers of the Mansfield chapter of the National Aeronautical association, which sponsors the Civil Pilot training program here, have frequently sought funds from city council to provide more adequate runways at the field but their pleas of the past four years are still unfilled.

The city does not allot a single penny of public funds in the annual budget for operation and maintenance of the port. All improvements in the past 10 years, as well as maintenance at the field have been provided by private funds, contributed by flying enthusiasts.

Only fund provided for aviation by the city was a $50 appropriation in 1939 for painting an identification marker on the roof of a downtown store building to direct pilots—a project that the state ordered completed.

This group has spent long hours—giving freely of time and money to keep up the field, but it is still not usable during the spring and fall when light frost is in the ground. Runways are soggy and planes frequently bog down and have to be towed out of the mud.

Recently Harrington requested the city to spend $900 seeding the runways. That was when it was early enough that the grass would have formed a sod to eliminate the mire. But records show council ignored the request.

The government warned the city two years ago that it would spend no money on development of the port until the city showed some interest by providing at least a portion of the funds.

Officials in Washintgon have repeatedly told city officials that an emergency field at Hayesville would be moved here when hard-surfaced runways are put down.

Transfer of the Hayesville equipment would provide lighting equipment and 24-hour weather observations necessary for night flying.

At least two plane manufacturers and several of the nation's major commercial air lines have ignored Mansfield because the port does not have adequate runways for aircraft.

At present, private interests at Ashland are making a strong bid to provide first class airport facilities in that city with the hope of attaining a commercial air line stop. They also have the promise of the government that the Hayesville station will be moved there if proper runways are laid.

Mansfield airmen point out that should a nearby city obtain commercial air service before Mansfield it is unlikely that this city would then be able to obtain such service and mail and express as well as passengers would then have to be transported to the nearby port for air connections.

Eighty-three persons were examined at the Chest Clinic conducted here yesterday by the Ashland County Tuberculosis association. Persons examined ranged in age from one year to 72.

Examining doctors were Dr. Paul Holme of Oak Ridge sanitarium at Greensprings; Dr. D. H. Minnis of the Lorain county sanitarium at Amherst; and Dr. J. H. Baube of Avalon sanitarium at Mt. Vernon, assisted by Dr G. B. Fuller, county health commissioner and Dr. R. P. Borniard, city health commissioner.

Also assisting with the clinic were Mrs. Ruth Daum, county health nurse, Mrs. Inoz Waldo, city health nurse, and Mrs. Elizabeth Marble and S. C. McKinley of the county health department. Nurses were Mrs. M. D. Shilling and Mrs. Paul Schell.

The Ashland County Tuberculosis association, which makes two of the clinics available every year, is now distributing its Christmas seals for this year, the proceeds of which are used for this purpose. Mrs. R. F. Kinstle is president of the Ashland County association, Mrs. G. D. Friedling, treasurer, and R. S. McKinley, executive secretary.

DISCUSSES 4 M'S IN GALION TALK

GALION—That America's future lies in her man-power, was stressed in an address here, Tuesday night, by Arthur C. Horrocks of Akron, educational director of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

Horrocks was speaker at the annual "Bosses Night" held by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Talbott. He was introduced by L. E. Simonis, program chairman for the dinner-meeting.

"America's Future" was the topic of Horrocks' address. In encouraging words, he gave an informative talk, basing his talk on four "M's," money, materials, macinery, and manpower; stressing the fact that America's future lies in her manpower.

TWO FINED

GALION—Carl Sheaks was fined $5 and costs for reckless operation of his automobile which resulted in an accident at the first alley west of the public square. He appeared in Mayor W. M. King's court. The accident occurred Saturday evening.

Another local motorist, John Groh, was fined $100 and costs on charge of driving while intoxicated. Police charged his car sideswiped a parked car owned by Grant West on Harding way east, Saturday evening.

MEMBERS OF CRESTLINE CLUB HAS 'SWAP PARTY' RECENTLY

CRESTLINE—A "Swap Party" was held by members of the Home Workshop club at a recent meeting at the basement shop of Ernest Linn, with his son Don Linn, associate host.

Each member brought a tool which was swapped by the grab bag method which afforded much comment and fun for the group.

A number of wooden toys were cut out, which will be made by the group and given to the American Legion for their charity work at Christmas.

Vaughn C. Blauvelt gave a demonstration in the preparation of aged walnut for finishing and the wood filler and completed the demonstration by varnishing with dull satin varnish.

On another piece of already finished wood he completed his demonstration in the waxing process.

The club donated $5 to the Red Cross and made plans for a family Christmas party to be held at the Leesville school on Dec. 17.

The door prize was won by Carl Diordana. Seventeen members and four guests, Robert Walden of Bucyrus; Dale Farrell, K. T. Linn and Arthur Vaughn were present.

President W. S. Marshall presided and announced the next regular meeting for Dec. 15 at the home of W. D. Snyder with W. J. Emmer associate host.

On the volunteer participation program, Mrs. C. Jensen was named to represent the Red Cross, Charles Hilman, the ex-service men's organizations, Dr. Harry Finney the churches, Frank Honnold the schools and Mrs. Leon McCarty the women's clubs.

CITED FOR SERVICE

GALION—Richard Sanderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Sanderson of Galion, has received his honorable discharge from the army with information that he will receive a medal for good conduct during his three years' service. In his notice of the award, it was stated that a duplicate was being forwarded to the adjutant general with the request that proper notations be made on the service record.

TAX COLLECTION CLOSES MONDAY

BUCYRUS—Deadline for payment of real estate taxes will expire Monday when tax books will be closed in the office of County Treasurer Mae Kloepfer.

Collections for this period have already exceeded those for the same period last year with $45,156.38 collected to date as compared with $44,770.75 collected during the second half last year.

Total collections in 1940 were $117,567.32, which is $10,000 less than the sum already collected this year. Collections of delinquencies is partly responsible for the increase, the treasurer stated.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1941.

Pennsylvania's fine new highway is making a bad accident record—everything has been made safe except the drivers.

According to the military authorities, it's uncertain whether Hitler's Russian campaign is a stalemate or a freeze-out.

As Robert Quillen analyzes the situation: "Setting up another commission means the old one failed to do the job and it's against the rules to fire anybody."

More and More On Federal Payroll

SOME IDEA of the frightful extravagance of New Deal administration of federal government is gained from information in a speech delivered in the house of representatives last week by Congressman J. Harry McGregor, of this district.

Asking the question, "Where and when will it end," Congressman McGregor allowed the record to disclose that approximately a half million persons have been added to the civilian federal payroll in the last 18 months—and more than 230,000 of these in the last six months, bringing the total on Sept. 1 to 1,444,985, or, amazingly, that one person in every 87 in the whole country is now on the payroll of the federal government. Mr. McGregor made it clear that these figures do not include persons in the military and naval forces.

Said Mr. McGregor: "The budget bureau has reported that New Deal publicity alone, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941, cost the taxpayers $27,770,000. The publicity department includes 153 different executive agencies and 34,513 employes.

"It is estimated that the government will spend, during the fiscal year 1942, $24,581,000,000. In 1933, when President Roosevelt took office, expenditures of the government for all purposes amounted to $3,791,000,000. So I say, 'Where and when will it end'."

Such revelations of the tremendous build-up of civilian employment by the federal government and the vast sums wasted in non-defense activities serve to emphasize the importance of increasing public demand for radical reduction of all expenditures not essential to the national defense and aid program—so that the already heavy burden on taxpayers may not become unbearable.

Russia In the World of Tomorrow

SIR PHILIP GIBBS, veteran British war correspondent and author, gives the following slant on Russia. "Out of this war," he says, "will come a more democratic Russia which, understanding and being understood by the other democracies, will take a prominent part in the world of tomorrow."

Up to a few months ago few Americans wanted Russia to be prominent in the world's affairs. That country was still regarded as representing the "red menace." And many people are still doubtful about Russia, except for her courage and fighting power and her value as a helper in suppressing Hitler and his system.

Yet something has happened to Russia and also to Russia's critics. Bolshevism seems to have mellowed considerably. Certainly Stalin has mellowed, if his recent words and acts may be taken at face value.

Much of this new Russian fraternizing with the democratic nations is doubtless inspired by the great need of help against Germany, and a good deal of the warming up toward Russia has a similar source.

At any rate, there is now a mutual attitude of "live and let live" which makes cooperation possible. When the war is won political and social arguments can be resumed.

He Does a Cash Business

CONGRATULATIONS to Carl R. Johnson, Mifflin filling station proprietor, who took direct action in the case of a fellow who drove away from the station without paying for gasoline.

Operators of rural filling stations are usually at a disadvantage in coping with hold-up men and other crooks, so it is gratifying to hear occasionally of some one of them shooting a bandit caught in the act of robbing the station, or of capturing a dishonest motorist who drives off without paying, as was done by Mr. Johnson and his son.

The habit of noting the license number of cars being served is followed at many filling stations, thus making it possible to trace culprits who attempt a getaway. This would appear to be an especially good practice at rural stations.

Waiting In the Cold

THERE are so many details about managing such a big business as the Pennsylvania railroad that delegated authority must sometimes slip into inattentive hands—which probably accounts for the below-freezing temperature of the newly-built waiting room, between tracks at Mansfield's Pennsylvania passenger station.

Last winter, it is explained, the waiting room—which is reached through the also newly-built subway—was heated by a stove. Then radiators were installed, with connection to the main heating plant. But, for some reason, heat does not reach to these radiators and patrons shiver toward pneumonia as they await the arrival of sometimes late trains.

Small matter, possibly, but not to those who suffer from the cold and who can't understand why the waiting room isn't heated these chilly mornings.

The federal trade commission questions the use of "everlasting" in connection with granite advertising—and substitution of a 10,000-year guarantee should be equally satisfying to prospective customers.

The national debt is now only a little above 54 billion dollars—but New Deal persistence probably can be depended upon to carry it to the 100-billion dollar goal.

Samson's strength was in his hair—and it is interesting to contemplate how little John L. Lewis might amount to without his eyebrows.

"Live dangerously," advises Mussolini, after looking around to see that all of his bodyguards are in their proper places.

Judging from the satisfactory substitutes that are being marketed silk seems to be on its last legs.

Give some people everything they want and they'll start thinking up another list.

THEY SHOULD CARE FOR THEIR OWN

Difficult to Aid 'Little Fellows'

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Another blast in behalf of the "little fellows" in manufacturing has just been issued by Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania. So much has been written and spoken about the necessity of getting all the little shops of the country bound into the defense drive, and therefore kept in operation, that it might be well to point out some of the outstanding reasons why the program to do precisely that has bogged down. For "bogged down" it has, beyond the slightest doubt.

Senator Davis views the situation from many angles; not the least interesting is that ordinary business must carry the tax load. It makes very little difference, really, what the profits of the manufacturers who are producing for national defense are. If they are small, they can be disregarded. But if they are large very few "spending dollars" will find their way into the pockets of the owners.

The corporation income tax will take pretty nearly the first third, the excess profits tax will take another chunk, and the terrific personal income taxes, those already enacted and those to come, will take three-fourths or more of what is left—assuming that the gentlemen in question have sizable incomes.

ONE WAY of looking at this is that if the government pays low prices for defense products, there is nothing to worry about, but if it pays high prices it will get all the cream, or most of it, back.

So we can almost disregard what we might call the defense industries in this problem of taxation, and look at what industries are left. It is these non-defense industries which will pay most of the government's revenue. As more and more of them are being curtailed because, not being defense industries, they cannot get the materials they need, this becomes a serious problem, and obviously will force a larger and larger percentage of the total defense cost to be financed by borrowing.

The other angle is that the defense effort should be much greater, and one way to make it greater is to bring more of the small plants into defense production.

The difficulty here is a problem almost as old as human nature. Your big contractor is assailed for not subcontracting more. It is assumed that he wants to keep all the gravy for himself, instead of passing it around. This is not the main reason because the more subcontracting he can do the more total business he can do. A lot of subcontracting, instead of cutting down the amount of his earnings, might actually increase them.

NORMALLY this would sound cockeyed, but in a situation where the government is eager for twice as much as everyone can produce it becomes a fact and not a theory.

His objection to subcontracting is that he dislikes to put his whole production at the mercy of small plants in whose reliability he has little confidence. For precisely the same reason, men in the army and navy used to dealing with delivery problems like to rely on producers who have demonstrated ability to be ready on the contract date. That difficulty is really the essence of the whole problem. It has not been solved, and gives no promise of being solved in the near future.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Nov. 26, 1921.

Police issued warning that motorists driving wrong way in one-way streets would be arrested.

Mrs. Martin Frank, 79, died.

Home office of Buckeye Union Mutual Insurance company was moved from Lima to Mansfield.

The Dr. R. R. Black property on West Fourth street was bought by State Senator Henry R. Endly.

Spring street was mentioned as the longest street in Mansfield paved entirely with concrete.

W. T. Houston moved from 20 North Franklin avenue to 77 Marion avenue.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Nov. 26, 1936.

Mansfielders observed Thanksgiving Day, with the temperature at 25 degrees.

Mrs. Barbara Snyder, 85, lifelong resident of Mansfield, died at the home of her son in Akron.

Miss Mary M. Daum and Laurel M. Wallace were married in the parsonage of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Mrs. Virgil Cox left for a trip to Los Angeles, Calif.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cornell, 380 West Fifth street.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 26, 1607, is regarded as the probable date of the birth of John Harvard, first benefactor of Harvard University. A preacher by occupation, he died on Sept. 3, 1638, only about a year after his arrival in this country.

Listen World!

A Draftee's Mother

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Tangled times. Each of us thinking he knows the answers. "How about you?" said we: "want to be a Columnist for a Day? Got some lively topic you could discuss in 800 words?" You had! You did! And today the results start rolling . . . with Mrs. N. A. L., Hotel Commodore, New York City, leading off and TELLING AMERICA WHAT TO EXPECT IF ANYTHING HAPPENS TO HER DRAFTEE SON!)

BEFORE going further, let's get this straight. This column is strong for mothers. Having been one myself for 37 years, I've a fair idea what a good mother's job requires . . . and the respect she deserves. And I'm convinced that no woman, of any nationality, can surpass our American Mother's record for courage, devotion and intelligence.

But sometimes we turn virtue into a vice. . . . Mother love so easily becomes smother love, when a strong woman, with no other outlet for her energy, is bossing the works. . . . We forget that our brawny draftee sons are no longer oogley-woogley lambie-pies but husky he-men, responsible for making their private decisions and facing the consequences... So just in case, we're reminding loyal lady N.A.L. who speaks for more up-'n'att 'em moms than you might imagine. Says she:

"My son is no sissy. He's six-feet-two and weighs 180 pounds. He was earning $15 per day on construction work before he was drafted. I have a picture of him taken when he left. It's unnecessary to say what that picture means to me. But I warn America of this:

Mrs. N. A. L.

With all due respect to you, my dear—and that's plenty—I believe that such an attitude does more harm to American manhood and ideals than all the enemy tanks, guns and saboteurs combined. You are, obviously, a patriotic and informed citizen. Then you should know, without my reminder, that your attitude is both silly and unjustified.

American training camps are not dens of iniquity. Our boys receive far better physical and moral guidance within them than they could possibly receive in the average city district. And never were they in such pressing need of guidance. Despite unparalleled opportunities for self-development, the draft examinations revealed appalling unfitness in our draftees.

Whether the war comes or not, this much is certain: This period of training has been the greatest boon ever given by any government to its young men. Five years more of our recent ga-ga program, and the feeblest outfit on earth could have made us cry "Uncle!" And instead of weeping and threatening, as so many mothers are now doing, they should be singing paeans of gratitude to America for the service it is rendering their sons.

As for Getting Hunk with Uncle Sam in case Junior doesn't return with a good "deportment card"—Be Your Age, Sister! It takes two to make a Naughty Boy of any draftee. If he doesn't know that at 21, he's eligible for a nice padded cell, with soft music. And you'll be largely to blame!

FOR THERE'S NO SURER WAY OF TURNING ANY MALE INTO A MORAL WEAKLING THAN BY KEEPING HIM TOO LONG IN MAMA'S LAP. THE GREATEST ENEMY ANY YOUNG AMERICAN CAN HAVE IS A DOTING PARENT WHO WON'T LET HIM MAKE HIS OWN DECISIONS...MOLD HIS OWN DESTINY...AND TAKE HIS OWN SHELLACKING WHEN HE DESERVES IT.

IF THIS BE LOVE, GIVE ME HIVES!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

High-Hatters In the British Embassy Cause Resentment In Washington

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The British barring of Russian Ambassador Litvinoff from an airplane en route to the U. S. A. has increased Washington whispers that it is about time the British did something to clean up their moribund diplomatic service and cut out snubs to people who are trying to help them.

It has long been the belief of Americans, too polite to mention it, that the British embassy in Washington can make more mistakes to the square inch even than Mr. Hull's state department—and many of the state department's mistakes come from trying so ardently to ape the British.

For years the British embassy has sat on its hilltop, well removed from the bustle of Washington, and looked with slightly disdainful amusement upon hoi polloi of congress. An invitation to the British embassy in those good old days was considered by the dowagers as better than an invitation to the White House.

But those good old days, unfortunately both for the dowagers and the embassy, are gone, never to return. However, the embassy appears completely unaware of that fact. And its charming young men go their charming way, saying sometimes too audibly: "We must be nice to Americans"; while the real work of defending Britain takes place in the British purchasing commission, largely under the direction of hard-boiled Canadians and Australians.

Viscount Halifax is one of the most delightful and genteel persons ever to grace the embassy. He tries hard. But hard as he tries, he cannot overcome the bubbling Charles Peake, who minces around him as if his lordship still were viceroy of India with white and crimson-costumed Sikhs mounted on black chargers outside his palace, in Calcutta, instead of being in a city where politics are very earthy and where the congressman's wife from Keokuk has a lot more influence than the pink tea protocol experts usually seen at the British embassay.

Perhaps it's expecting too much, but it would be interesting to watch the effect on congress if the British embassy unbent a bit and, as a very mild contribution toward winning the war, invited the wives of mid-western senators and congressmen to dinner.

Washington Society.

WASHINGTON is a city where debate may rage furiously on the floor of the senate, but simmer down to friendly storytelling in the ante-room or around the dinner table afterward. This is not always the case, however, and sometimes Washington society becomes so aroused that it is dangerous to invite certain strong-minded people to dinner.

This was true during the fight over Roosevelt's Supreme Court bill; and during the Willkie-Roosevelt election campaign; and it is somewhat true during the neutrality controversies today. Old hands at the game of controversy, however, manage to keep their tempers. For instance, seated near each other at dinner the other night were Senator Burt Wheeler, than whom there is no more energetic isolationist, and Undersecretary of the Navy Forrestal, just as energetically interventionist.

Wheeler was talking about the recent neutrality debate, telling how Roosevelt forces influenced votes by promising jobs and dishing out patronage. Interrupted Undersecretary Forrestal:

"Senator, did the neutrality fight reach the depths of your fight to pass the Wheeler-Rayburn Act?" (The Holding Corporation Act).

"No," shot-back Senator Wheeler, "I didn't have the patronage."

The two men continued a good-natured discussion of neutrality, Wheeler maintaining that time would prove that his anti-war stand was right. After the war, he contended, history would reverse the present tide of war sentiment and there would be a revulsion of feeling if not a virtual French revolution.

"And when the guillotine ax begins to fall, Senator," said Forrestal as he departed, "will you be my attorney?"

Finns vs. Nazis.

INTELLIGENCE reports from Europe for the first time indicate friction between German and Finnish troops on the Eastern fronts. The Finns are sore because the Nazis have been living off the country and have not been at all scrupulous in paying Finnish peasants for pigs, cows and chickens.

On top of this, the Nazis recently ousted Finnish children from an orphanage at Rovaniemi and used it for the general staff. This made the Finns boil with anger.

Note—With Finnish-British relations anything but happy, the British ambassador, Lord Halifax, sat on the right of Mrs. Evalyn McLean at dinner the other night, while Finnish Minister Procope sat on her left. They appeared to have a good time.

War Pensions.

CONGRESS is going to do something for the families of the heroes who lost their lives in the Reuben James and other disasters in the Battle of the Atlantic.

A bill, strongly backed by the president, will soon be reported by the house pensions committee to increase payments to full wartime levels for death or disability incurred in "extra hazardous" service.

This will mean an increase of about 42 per cent in payments to the beneficiaries of service men killed in ship disasters, maneuvers, airplane crashes, etc., and a 25 per cent increase for disabilities. Here are a few examples of how the revised rates would work out:

A childless widow under 50 now receives $22 a month. Under the proposed new schedule, she would get $38 a month. A widow under 50, with two children, gets from $35 to $42, depending on the age of the children. Under the revised rate, she would get from $56 to $66 a month.

The peacetime pension of a soldier, sailor, marine or coast guardsman who incurred a 30 per cent disability while engaged in "extra hazardous" service is $22.50 a month, or 75 per cent of the wartime rate. Under the new bill he would receive $30, the full wartime rate. The same man, if totally disabled, would have his pension, now $75 a month, increased to $100.

If he is blinded in both eyes or loses the use of both hands and one foot, or both feet and one hand, his pension would be increased from the present rate of $131.25 a month to $175.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Earl M. Thacker is in town, clamoring for statehood for Hawaii. Honolulu's best known citizen wants Hawaii to become the 49th state, and no fooling about it. He has his arguments and he is not backward about presenting them. Over a chilled, non-alcoholic beverage water at the Lexington he outlined these points:

(a) "We pay Federal taxes—more income tax than 17 other states in the Union, yet we have no vote in the policies of our government.

(b) "We will have to bear the brunt of any war that comes to the Pacific, yet we have no men to guarantee us adequate representation in Washington.

(c) "We have the greatest sugar and pineapple business in America—yet we can't fight for our rights and prestige in the national capitol."

I said, "Mr. Thacker, what about the Japanese question? A large percentage of Hawaii's population is Japanese. Are they on the level with the government of the United States? If we went to war would they be loyal to America?"

"Of course they would," he said. "Most of them were born under this flag, they pay taxes, they know what freedom means. Do you think they'd want to surrender that?"

Then he said, "There isn't any doubt that the great majority are just as patriotic as you or I. There may be a few traitors here and there, but so are there traitors in New York, and in any other state you can name."

And with that he hurried off to Washington to see what he could do.

I KNOW of no actor who consistently wins the accolades earned by Maurice Evans. His current "Macbeth" impressed the critics as "the best ever presented in New York." In other seasons his Hamlet, Richard and Henry scored just as solidly. In the modern theater his name amounts almost to a sure certificate of success. I can think of only two other players in the theater who can match this talent for generating enthusiasm among professional drama goers, and they are women — Helen Hayes and Lynn Fontanne.

FOR some reason restaurant operators and amusement hall men resent the name "juke box." Juke boxes are those automatic record players that are everywhere and anywhere. You put in a nickel and you get a new tune. What their beef is I don't know. Juke box is jive, it's a part of the living language. An effort is being made to kill it off . . . I don't think this effort will succeed. There's a "plunk" to the way the name sounds. It's different. It's here to stay. Recently Tommy Dorsey communicated with record players all over the country. To his surprise, more than a hundred bitterly criticized the juke box tag. Who thought it up in the first place anyway?

A Farmer's Diary

An Ant Hill

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT WAS a warm sunny afternoon for November. I walked across our adjacent woodland on the west and crossed the wire fence at the north end. Here were brambles, blue grass and sparsely growing maples, poplars and young sassafras shoots. About three feet from the base of a scrubby maple, I came upon an ant hill as high and wide as a good-sized inverted iron pot. On the surface were small stems of grass and sticks with sand and finer earth between.

Small openings were used as entrances, while I judged the coarse material on the surface permitted ventilation from below and acted as a roof to turn the water on rainy days.

Long green stalks of grass grew four inches or more above the surface. The white tender stems of these, within, would stabilize the mound and provide the occupants with sweet succulent green food.

I stood by this silent colony and wondered what might be going on inside. They were reds—no doubt they had communistic leanings. The topmost withered banners of ribbon grass bore no insignia—my curiosity prompted me to stage a miniature blitz. I kicked my heavy shoe into the spongy mound with such force that it plowed clear through. Then down on my knees I got, to look.

Openings showed, like highways—the larger ones beneath. I scored it four inches deeper, at one place, and observed again. By this time the ants began to recover from the shock and stiffly to crawl out—about a hundred at first, then more and more, until I lost all count. I wondered if they would try to rebuild their homes and sat down on the heavy, sun-warmed blue grass, to watch.

I noticed an ant take a piece of leaf and carry it deep into the furrow I had made. Others crawling up the side started the fine sandy earth to slipping down in a little stream. Although each ant appeared busy, there seemed to be no definite organization.

Late that evening, with flashlight in hand, I went back to find out what more they had accomplished. All the workers had quit for the night. Some of the coarser covering, like that on top, had been carried into the furrow to cover up the damage I had done. The banners above the mound still waved—all was quite serene.

FIRST "CAREER NIGHT" PARTY GIVEN FOR GIRLS

Business and Professional Women's Club Sponsors Evening for Seniors; Program Enjoyed In John Simpson Cafeteria.

FIRST PARTY of its kind to be held here was the "Career Night" program sponsored last evening by the Business and Professional Women's club for senior girls in the home economics, commercial and distributive education courses at the Senior high school There were 150 in attendance to assemble in groups of 12 around large tables in the John Simpson cafeteria. Games and contests, in charge of hostesses from the club with Miss Bess Wickert as chairman, were enjoyed by all.

Miss Mary Gruber, president of the club, welcomed the girls to the party. Response was given by Ruth Hammar, 12-A in the commercial course. Program was in charge of Miss Doris Mann. The glee club of the B. and P. W. group, sang two numbers under the direction of Miss Myrtle Booth. Miss Marie Weil then gave a talk on "Why Women Work." After two piano selections by Miss Thelma Reed, Miss Nina Pollock talked on the topic "How Does Youth Get a Start?" The group was then entertained with various dance numbers by four performers from the Speas dance school. Concluding speaker for the evening was Miss Mann, whose subject was "On the Job—What Do We Do Now?"

Refreshments were served, and group singing and dancing were enjoyed following the program. Since the organization of the club 20 years ago, it has been the policy of the members to assist young people, through the organization's educational fund, to get a start in the business and professional world.

Child Study Club Makes Plans for Christmas Party

Mrs. Dean Fighter entertained members of the Child Study club Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. L. Van Derau, Andover road. Mrs. M. O. Burneson assisted the hostess during the meeting. One new member, Mrs. John Kindel, was welcomed into the club. One guest, Mrs. E. W. Dann, was in attendance.

Mrs. Fighter gave a paper on "Child News of the Month in Review." A paper on "Women in Defense" was given by Mrs. Lewis McCullough. Plans were made for children of the club members to go Christmas caroling during the holidays. The committee in charge of arrangements for this affair includes Mrs. Dale Balph, Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. W. J. Robbins and Mrs. Emmett Casey.

A Christmas party will be held for the children on Dec. 20 at the Prospect park pavilion. The committee in charge of arrangements is Mrs. Robert Crawford, Mrs. Gordon Colby, Mrs. C. R. Montgomery, and Mrs. William Riester. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table decorated with fall flowers. Mrs. Frederick Forkner poured at the table. Mrs. Casey will entertain the club at her home in Woodward avenue on Jan. 27.

Federation Talk To Be Presented At Ohio Theater

When Lt. Commander Carlos Fallon, Colombian naval officer, presents "A Good Neighbor Speaks For Himself" at the lecture to be sponsored Thursday morning by the Federation of Women, he will describe personal adventures ranging from piloting a destroyer 1500 miles under improvised sail to heading a gun boat flotilla in the Upper Amazon country. Program, which will be given at the Ohio theater, will begin at 11 o'clock.

Commander Fallon is rated a "top notch" speaker. He learend English as a child when his father was Columbian consul in New Orleans and he has spent sufficient time in far places of the globe to understand the relationship between the Americas and the world. A sense of humor and natural dramatic ability assure an enthusiastic reception for Commander Fallon's lecture.

There will be a luncheon at the Women's Club following the program.

ROBINSON-MIU VOWS READ NOVEMBER 22

Couple Exchange Vows at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burdine, Belmont Avenue; Rev. C. D. Snyder Officiates at Ceremony.

BEFORE an improvised altar of fall flowers and lighted tapers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burdine, Belmont avenue, on Nov. 22, Miss Delia Robinson became the bride of Nicholas Miu. Rev. C. D. Snyder, a friend of the couple, performed the quiet ceremony at 8 p. m. before thirty-five guests.

For her wedding the bride wore a blue chiffon velvet street length frock with wine accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of pink roses. Mrs. Evelyn Meekins, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a wine crepe street length frock, matching accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of yellow roses. Wayne Meekins, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. John Jones, sister of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony a reception was held for the guests at the Burdine home. Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table decorated with fall flowers and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. Miu is a graduate of Peru high school in Peru, Ind., and has been employed as a practical nurse. Mr. Miu attended schools in Rumania and graduated from a college in Budapest, Hungary. He is now employed as a real estate salesman with the Frank S. Culp Realty company. The couple is residing at 11 North Mulberry street.

Sorority Meets To Make Plans For December

Mrs. John Harrison, Schmitt court, was hostess for the business meeting of the Delta chapter of Tri Gamma sorority held Tuesday evening. Mrs. Earl Herrick, president, conducted the session. Plans were made for a guest party to be held Dec. 10 at the home of Mrs. Harry Hollingsworth, Stewart avenue. Mrs. Herrick will be the associate hostess.

Mrs. Robert Small and Mrs. Howard Culp will be in charge of the arrangements to supply a needy family with a basket of food during the holidays. A dinner-bridge party will be held Dec. 29 with Mrs. Jack Pealer and Mrs. Frank Mengert as hostesses. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting at small tables decorated with fall flowers.

Delta Theta Tau Has Bridge Party To Honor Bride

Party honoring Mrs. Merle Spurgeon, the former Marjorie Dise, was given recently by Delta Theta Tau sorority at the home of Mrs. Norman Wolfe, Park avenue west. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Dwight McCullough and Mrs. Robert Rogers.

Preceding the party there was a business session during which reports on philanthropic work for Thanksgiving and Christmas were given. Miss Helen Widders presided. Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas dance to be sponsored by the sorority on Dec. 6. Bernie May and his orchestra, from Cleveland, will furnish the music for dancing. General chairman for the affair is Miss Esther Dunham. On Dec. 12, the members will have dinner and inspection at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Guest will be the national president, Mrs. Grace Fern Heck.

Six tables of bridge were in play at the party. Gift from the group was presented to the bride. Lunch was served buffet style.

BEDSPREAD MOTIF PATTERN 1022

The peacock—the symbol of pride! And you'll be proud of your bedspread if you embroider this colorful bird on it. It's all in simplest stitchery. Pattern 1022 contains a transfer pattern of a motif 15x20 inches, 4 motifs 2¾x3¼ inches; illustrations of stitches; materials required; color chart.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

Like all young people, you love sports clothes—and you like them fashionable as well as comfortable! Pattern 9807 is ideal for you, says Marian Martin. It has a special "action sleeve" that makes it practical for sports or business wear, and the skirt, too, with its center panel pleated at either side, gives you plenty of room to move freely. The blouse has just enough fullness released in the back of a yoke. The topstitching is optional on this mode, but adds a tailored touch. So does the pocket and the optional cummerbund belt...for exciting tricolor contrast, make the cummerbund of one shade, the skirt of another, the short-sleeved blouse of still another shade. A Sew Chart is included.

Pattern 9807 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16, 2½ yards 54 inch.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address, and Style Number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I delayed my answer to my father for a second or two, because I wished to be certann as to what I should say. Then, as certainty came to me, I spoke with conviction.

"I wish I were as sure of everything as I am of, Lillian's keeping her feet on the ground. Of course she is on fire with anxiety, and her heart is so bruised that to bring up any memory of Marion is like putting a corrosive on raw flesh. But she's not going to break down—now that she has something for which to fight. That code book of Mary's scotched the worst fear she had, that Marion was responsible for her own escapade."

"Yes," my father acquiesed, "that code book was Heaven-sent. Lillian probably would have broken if she hadn't been delivered from that fear. But I am very glad to have your opinion of her strength. I'm afraid she's going to need it before this thing is over."

Brings Up Two Guards.

I did not ask his meaning. I knew that he would explain himself when he thought the time opportune. Just now, he had a more immediate task to perform.

"If you'll just stand here," he said, "I'll go down and bring up two of the men to move the cots and bedding downstairs."

I knew that I could have done the errand more quickly, and much more easily than he could, but I knew better than to suggest it. He is most sensitive about his failing strength, and when I know that something he is doing will not injure him, I make no protest.

He was back in exceedingly short time, bringing two of the guards with him.

"You won't need me," he told me, when he had ordered the men to do whatever I asked, "so I will go down again and wait for the surgeon. You won't need to pay any immediate attention to him when he comes, but it would be a good thing if the hospital beds could be ready as soon as he gets through patching up Harry."

Madge Leads Men to Attic.

"We will hurry as fast as possible," I assured him.

"I know that," he said, and then he turned downstairs, and I led the men to the attic.

Lillian is a good executive in directing her household help, so I knew I should find her attic in order, with everything ready to our hands. The men made short work of the moving, making only two trips to the basement with the whole equipment.

I followed them down with the last load, and found the first cot already made up. My father and the men were standing in front of the padlocked door behind which the unwounded bandit and the man with the shattered leg were imprisoned, and with the certain knowledge that my father would send me back upstairs immediately, I turned toward the stairs and whispered to the man bringing down the last load.

"I'll go back up now," I said, and he nodded.

But as soon as he had passed me, taking advantage of the fact that my father was looking at the door and that his men were watching him, I slipped into the vacant cubby hole I had filled before, and from its vantage watched tensely for what was going to happen next.

I tried to convince myself that fear for my father—a wish to be near him in any peril—was my sole reason for the action. Of course I knew that was my main motive, but I also was conscious of a longing to be in the midst of things, to experience the heady thrill of stark adventure. So I am afraid that if my father had been in no danger whatsoever, I still should have hidden in the cubbyhole to watch.

Sends For Tear Gas Bomb.

I had no illusions of being able to help anybody or anything at this time. There were too many able-bodied men ready for action, and I could imagine my father's expression if he should find me with what he probably would term my "popgun" in hand, ready to defend him.

So I kept my little silencer pistol out of sight, but with my hand on it—I could not forego that touch—and strained my eyes and ears toward the door in front of which my father stood.

He turned as the men came in with the last of the equipment, and put two quick questions.

"You have everything? Where is my daughter?"

"We brought everything down she gave us," one of the men replied, "and she went back upstairs."

"Good!" my father said. "One of you go out to the car, quickly, and bring in a coil of rope and a tear gas bomb, although we probably shan't need that. Get back here as soon as you possibly can."

KOBACKER'S SAVES YOU MONEY

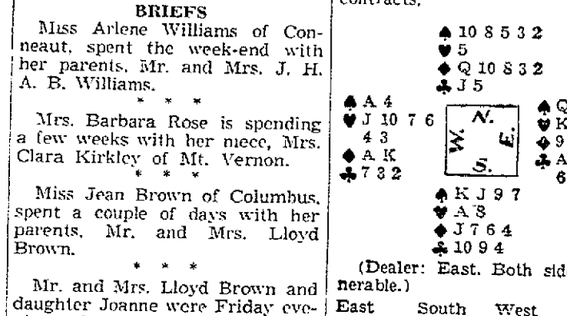
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

PLEASE DON'T DO IT

When one of your opponents has bid one suit, the other has bid another, and then they wind up in a contract at one of those two suits, please don't lead either of them unless there is something particularly freakish about your hand. Can't you see that the declarer almost certainly intends to dispose of your side's few trumps, then run that other suit and use it to discard the losing cards of the remaining two suits? Play of that sort is what might be called the first type of hand to use in giving a beginner lessons in the management of suit contracts.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	6 ♥

North decided that East had shown an elegant fit for his partner's hearts, and probably was short some other suit, where losers might get eliminated by ruffing. To stop this, he led his sole and solitary trump, the heart 5. How in the world could he expect to stop ruffs anyway, when East had shown such an emphatically fine fit by his jump to 3-Hearts?

Certainly he must have four of them to do that, so many that leading of trumps could not be very likely to prevent the one or two ruffs which might be needed by West. The latter could not need very many, when he jumped from 3-Hearts all the way to small slam.

Just see what happened after that lead. South took it with the A, of course, but did not repeat trumps because he saw that the declarer could drop them easily and then discard any losers of his own hand on those powerful clubs. So he made the desperation try of a diamond return, his 4. West naturally took that trick, dropped the last trump and discarded his spade loser on the clubs.

Even with his eyes shut, North, after hearing that bidding, should have considered a lead of one of the unbid suits, spades or diamonds. In such cases, the major usually is to be preferred, unless your minor holding contains a more promising lead, such as touching honors. Had North soundly led a spade, the Q, K and A would have been used. Then, when the heart A won for South, he could have cashed the spade J for the setting trick.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

If East decides to start the bidding of this deal with a psychic call of 1-Club on his extremely weak hand, in order to try to talk the opponents out of what looked to him like a probable game, what should be the course of further bidding if all four were fine cardsmen?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Nov. 27.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

The astral influences are particularly propitious or a lively thrilling, happy and prosperous day, with much stirring in all the departments of life. Travel, entertainment, surprises, change and all that heightens the instinct for growth, enjoyment, expansion, adventure and progress are under excellent promise for unprecedented fulfillments. This may apply to all business, property, labor and stable interests as well as to those things involving romantic enjoyments and happiness. But in all be alert to fraud and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a year of much high accomplishment, success and happiness. This coming in some cases with suddenness, surprise from unforeseen sources, but as well from hard work, sound ambitions, and recognition of merit and fidelity. Property and other values show increase, there may be profitable travel and change, but in all keep a wary eye to betrayals, schemes and other undercover or subtle undoing.

A child born on this day should be ambitious, have much stability and sound principle, with much ingenuity and originality. It should find rich rewards for such endowments and favor with its elders and superiors.

MOST EVERYONE knows Hydra-Matic Drive* is a work saver. But few realize that it's a gas saver, too. Here are the facts: Hydra-Matic is engineered with four speeds forward. That permits slower engine speeds. In fourth speed, for example, 1,000 engine revolutions will propel your Olds Hydra-Matic 2,130 feet as against 1,700 feet for a similar car with standard transmission. Hence, you get more mileage on gas—or, conversely, save gas on any given trip. Then, too, Hydra-Matic's automatic shifting prevents lags and consequent waste of fuel. The net result—gasoline savings of 10 to 15 per cent. Why not drive the easy Hydra-Matic way—in a new Olds B-44—and be money ahead on gas!

The Walls Came Tumbling + +

CHAPTER I

Carol Delaine stood gazing across the sun-baked stretch of Front street below the office window. She was so deeply absorbed in thought that there was almost a suggestion of tenseness about the slim motionless figure in a white dress. Her brown eyes were fixed, unwavering.

Those large brown eyes were Carol's most attractive feature. Set rather wide apart under dark expressive brows they were perfect in shape, fringed with lustrous lashes. An arresting contrast to the soft, straight hair drawn back simply and gathered in a knot on the nape of her slender neck. Her hair was the color of old amber, shining.

Carol was brooding and passively conscious of it, equally aware that she should shake off her pensive humor. It did no good. But there were so many uncertainties to ponder over these days. Her tendency to muse was inherited from her father whom she was watching now. The sight of him had filled the brown eyes with wistful perplexity. It was a familiar attitude toward this only parent and it had been like that for a long time, ever since she was old enough to reason situations with a degree of satisfaction to herself. She was nearly twenty-two now and the future held nothing very definite for her.

"Secure" probably would have been the word for it had Carol attempted to formulate an accurate answer. Security, on the other hand, seemed never to feature Andre Delaine's own contemplations. His conclusions were reached readily, almost airily. And apparently he found them adequate, no matter how anyone else might be inclined to regard them.

Instead of being in his nearby tailoring shop this afternoon, Andre reposed comfortably in an armchair set in the shady entrance to the fire hall. The central figure in a group of loungers. Andy—as his intimates preferred to call him—invariably attracted an audience. A slight figure of a man with an unruly thatch of graying curls, blue eyes and a wide mouth with a whimsical twist. His snowy shirt was pulled open at the throat but with no suggestion of carelessness. His linen trousers were fresh and carefully pressed. Spotless white shoes on his outstretched feet. Andre always was immaculate and he wore his limited wardrobe with an indefinable air. More than likely there was no reason for being in his small quarters on the sunny side of the street. Men of Jericho demanded little in the way of custom tailoring and the Delaine artistry was devoted mainly to cleaning and pressing. But there was not enough demand to keep one busy.

Carol was too far distant to catch more than the occasional sound of her father's voice, but she knew that he was holding forth on some topic in his leisurely style, a trifle grandiose yet oracular. The forefinger of his right hand caressed his thin mustache; the left held a palm leaf fan with which he gently emphasized a point now and again. Always that tolerant finality. It was a part of him. Andre Delaine never acknowledged an uncertainty.

"Uh . . . Carol." A voice behind her broke her train of thought.

"Yes, Doctor?"

The response was little more than a respectful murmur. Carol did not turn from the window. She had heard her employer moving about in his private room, knew that he was making ready for a round of visits. But she did not realize that it was an instinct in keeping with her present mood that held her eyes on the fire hall group. Yet it was nothing less. Dr. Erasmus Silverthorne was like so many other things. With such a surname he should have been large and dignified, elderly, benign in appearance and speech, instead of a lean, hard-muscled man with deep lines in his face and a sparse wiry goatee. His conversation was equally sparse. He was mirrored clearly in Carol's mind, pausing there with one hand on the knob of the outer door. The shiny serge suit, soiled Panama pushed to the back of his head. The familiar leather bag dangling against his knee.

"Going out in the country," he said. "Far as Wilcox's this time. Reckon I won't be back much before five."

"All right, doctor."

"If you've got time, there's a little job . . ."

Carol turned. If she had time! She always had time—too much time. That was another vague worry. If a stranger had inquired about her work, she would have explained that she was a receptionist. The word had a dignified sound and she liked to say it to herself. That was why she wore white during office hours when it was possible, simple gowns suggesting uniforms. It was her own idea. But to the town she merely was Doc Silverthorne's office girl. After all, that didn't mean a great deal.

If the doctor had letters to write, he preferred to do them himself, with an ancient gold pen whose point was so curiously bent that no one else could use it. But Carol did do the office accounting. The system consisted of two battered card files, one labeled "alive" and the other "dead." However, the thumbed pasteboards in the second drawer were not to be taken literally. They designated many a patient who had evaded the grave to date and, with equal success, payment for the services that had kept him above ground.

"Wish you'd sort of run through the list once, Carol," the physician resumed. "Lay out the ones you think we maybe could go after again. You know."

"Yes, Doctor."

None knew better than she that collections had been increasingly difficult these last few years. So many people were existing on meager incomes, if not accepting relief, and Silverthorne, despite his brusque airs, was inclined to be too charitable for his own good. Sometimes he was apologetically tardy in handing Carol her modest salary. He just might conclude one of these days that she could do her reading and bits of fancywork at Aunt Cassie's where she and Andre made their home. Waiting patients could entertain themselves if the doctor was out. Of course it was something of a help to have a girl to answer the telephone and arrange appointments.

Carol had nerved herself to a point where she could assist in accident treatments that sometimes came to the office. Once she had saved the life of a small boy by applying a tourniquet after he had slashed his wrist on a piece of glass, only to slump into shameful unconsciousness after Doctor Silverthorne arrived to complete the work and compliment her upon her presence of mind. So far as she knew he never had revealed the professional delinquency.

With the abrupt closing of the hall door and the sound of the doctor's retreating footsteps, Carol lingered a moment at the window. Her eyes still betrayed perplexity as she observed the doctor climb into his dusty car, saw her father smile and flourish his fan as the coupe jerked past with a chatter of gears shifting. Then Andre resumed his disquisition. Everything seemed to settle back into a listless sultry tranquility Into Jericho.

Jericho had been favored with but one brief paragraph when the Writers' program published its State Guide. That was because General Lew Wallace's troops once camped near the junction on their way south to intercept General Jubal Early who was making a feint at the defenses of Washington. General Wallace established overnight headquarters at the Hanscomb House and a bronze plaque to that effect was set in the old hostelry's dingy wall. The Lions had done that as a mild rebuke to their government's continued lack of interest in the project. Each time Carol Delaine chanced to notice the marker she was reminded of an observation by her father, one of the sort he liked to style a "quaint conceit."

Andre was seated by the kitchen stove at the time and softly thrumming his zither, the faithful attendant on his frequent cogitations. Its music, from majestic string sweepings to plaintive little improvisations, served as an accurate index to his changing moods. Dreamy, now.

"You know," he observed to his sister and daughter who were washing the supper dishes, "if old Lew Wallace had put his mind on Jericho instead of Jerusalem, we'd have been on the map today . . . if he'd made Ben Hur a local boy, I mean. That plug for Jerusalem never got it much so far as I've heard. They say the place still . . . smells."

"So does that cigar," Mrs. Steel commented. "And you could do something by fetching in a bucket of coal, if you can stop that noise a minute." Aunt Cassie never had learned to appreciate the zither.

"As you will, Cassandra dear."

Andre bestowed one of his twisted little smiles upon Carol as he caught her sympathetic glance. He laid his instrument tenderly on the table, picked up the scuttle and disappeared through the back door humming a continuation of his interrupted melody.

Cassandra Steel was obliged to admit to herself that her brother was a good-natured something, even though it was difficult to make sense out of a great deal that he said. He never had accumulated anything and never would, a born dreamer. Baby of the family and pampered by his three sisters, of whom Cassandra was the youngest and only remaining one. Intentional or not, it seemed that she was attempting to rectify her attitude of other days.

Andre had married early, but never had brought his wife to Jericho. The girl was, or had been, an actress not famous so far as anyone knew. If she had been, it would not have salved the outraged feelings of Andre's family. Privately they doubted whether she was a good girl, even though a photograph which Carol cherished above all her few treasures revealed that her mother had dainty features, a wistful mouth and great dark eyes. Those eyes were her legacy to Carol.

When Hattie Delaine died, Andre brought his four-year-old daughter to Cassie and Peter Steel as something of a matter of course; he was in no position to care for the motherless child and the Steels were. To give them credit, they both had done their best by Carol. Andre and Peter were not in the least congenial and the former was seen in Jericho at infrequent intervals thereafter. No one ever knew where Andre's travels took him during that period but they must have been extensive. To Carol he was something of a fascinating myth until Uncle Peter passed away and her father once more became a reality.

Provident Peter Steel left his widow a modest home, a similar income and, all unintentionally, a haven for Andre who settled down for the first time in his life. He described himself as a "paying guest" at his sister's—and was, when in funds. Carol was sixteen at the time of her father's serious start in business.

GEN. JOHNSON: Agree to Wage Fixing In Price Measure

WASHINGTON—Much of the following work is not mine. It is a very liberal paraphrase of a letter from one of our younger officials working on the defense problem. From what I have seen of his thinking and expression, they are about as able as I know in both their simplicity and their logic—to an extent that I wish much of it were my own.

Johnson

I wonder if anything can be done about the publicity being put out by the OEM, which influences so directly the line followed by many newspapers. I have before me a considerable amount of this stuff which is used liberally as handouts. The following paragraph appears among it:

"The one great question confronting the people of the United States today is how rapidly we want to get this job done. If we want to tighten our belts, go all out for military production, it is virtually certain we can halt aggression in a comparatively short time. We have productive capacity unmatched in the world. It is up to the American people whether or not we use all of it for defense production. If we do, we can return to normal living far sooner than if we demand our customary luxuries."

There are three separate absurdities in the foregoing paragraph. It is not virtually certain that we can halt aggression, no matter what we do. It is impossible for the American people to use all their productive capacity for defense production. Some, and I would say a major part, must be retained for their bare subsistence, and not for their "customary luxuries." No matter what we do, we cannot soon return to normal living.

Yet this issue between beating Hitler in a long war or in a short one is the basis of many speeches and newspaper articles. To most military analysts, the issue raised seems false, misleading and dangerous. We don't have a choice between a long victorious war and a short victorious war. If we go all out as rapidly as possible, we probably will beat Hitler in a war of indefinite duration. If we wait until he has knocked out Russia and exploited most of the resources of Eurasia, it isn't clear that we will ever beat him completely.

Insofar, as the long-short war reflects more than wishful thinking it seems to be based on a faulty study of the various means. We ought to distinguish three kinds of means: first immediate means—soldiers, ships and munitions; second, intermediate means—such as capital, plant, tools and transportation; third, long-run means—population and natural resources.

Wars are won mainly by the first means, but they are created by the second and third means. Furthermore, the first means are used to increase our own second and third means and to decrease those of the enemy. Hitler has some edge in the first means, especially on land, but not enough to end the war at once. The anti-Axis powers (including ourselves) have a considerable edge in the second and especially the third means. Hitler's program seems to be to use his immediate superiority to turn the balance of long-run means in his favor by conquering Russia and using the long-run means to increase his relative intermediate and immediate means.

Our task is to convert our long-run and intermediate means while we have it, into superiority at the immediate level. On the face of it Hitler has a longer distance to go, but he has a long head-start, and he is a fast worker. If he reaches a state of superiority at all three levels, it is hard to see how he will be beaten at all.

We can probably do it but if, into this study, anbody can read a short war regardless of the tempo of our effort and, excepting only, the bare possibility of a sudden and explosive internal Nazi collapse, he must have more facts than are available to the general public.

We can never do the job at all if we scatter our immediate means over the whole face of the known earth as fast as they are created, and if we do not get a great deal more system, economy and efficiency into our effort. Appropriating uncounted billions certainly is not the answer.

U. S. PASSES GREAT BRITAIN IN TANK OUTPUT

Military Officials Reveal Big Share of Equipment on Battle Lines.

WASHINGTON — The United States, a defense official asserted today, already has outstripped Great Britain in the race of tank production.

Moreover, military sources said, at least half of the tanks that roll off American assembly lines are being rushed to far-flung battle lines, under the lease-lend program, for service against the Axis.

These reports were coupled with the disclosure that production schedules envisioning 33,000 light and medium tanks annually have been suggested as part of a proposed "victory program."

A big share of existing tank production has gone to Britain, providing the empire forces with a sizable part of the armored strength in the current Libyan offensive, but undisclosed quantities also have been shipped to Russia.

Because of military considerations, no figures were given to support the claim that American tank production has now passed England's, but an official in the Office of Production Management reported today that the output here in November was running 30 per cent higher than estimates made in early summer.

The so-called "victory" program, still in the formative stage but reportedly calling for doubling the present $61,000,000,000 defense effort, lays heavy emphasis on medium and light tanks.

The fast, heavily armed 30-ton medium tanks, would be built at the rate of 2,000 a month under the victory schedule, an OPM source said, and 13-ton light tanks at 800 a month.

Thus the ultimate production goal of the tentative program would be 33,600 tanks a year, as compared with the present objectives which call for 1,000 medium and 400 light tanks monthly. Recent reports indicated that delivery of light tanks already had reached the 300-a-month mark.

The sheriff's office and the probate court office will act as an aid to Santa this year in receiving gifts for the mentally ill at the Columbus State hospital. Inexpensive gifts of all kinds are acceptable, according to Dr. J. F. Bateman, hospital superintendent, who asks that the two offices forward their packages by Dec. 17. The superintendent, in letters to Sheriff Frank Robinson and Judge S. H. Cramer, suggested that since "music is of great therapeutic value to the patients," donations of musical gifts would help the institution in forming a patients' band. He also listed among other acceptable gifts such items as old costume jewelry, inexpensive cosmetics, candy, fruit, books, magazines, playing cards, games or jigsaw puzzles.

Mansfield heard a former hometown girl, Dana Jenney, broadcast on "We, the People," radio hour last night. Miss Jenney, now one of the famous John Powers models, also brought Shenandoah into the limelight while being interviewed on the air. The Richland county village was the former home of the beautiful Miss Jenney, termed by Powers as one of his "three best models." The other two models were also on the program.

Elections and primaries are all over in Richland county until next August, but the county board of elections already is preparing for the August primaries. Registrations and transfers are being received at the board's headquarters in the courthouse. Although prospective voters may register or transfer until next July, the board is urging them to take care of the details now so there won't be the usual big rush at the last hour. A few Mansfielders have already been to the courthouse to register so they won't forget it.

LEADERS WILL SUPPORT PLAN TO GAIN VOTES

Seek Aid of Southern Bloc For Inclusion on Farm Price Ceilings.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—House leaders today agreed to support a modified wage fixing amendment in the price control bill in return for support from rural southerners of a move to tighten up farm price ceilings.

The double-barreled drive came as house Republicans, badly split on these issues, assembled in a party conference to formulate solid opposition to provisions in the bill permitting the administration to place business under a licensing system, and to buy and sell in the market as a means of stabilizing prices.

GOP leaders said also that their group will be virtually solid in backing an amendment by Rep. Wolcott (R) Mich., to set up a seven man board of review with power to veto ceilings set by the price administrator.

With completion of the Republican conference, the house, which has spent two days debating the controversial measure, meets to start voting on amendments. Leaders predicted some kind of bill will be passed by Friday night.

Of the many proposals to write wage controls into the anti-inflation measure, the one singled out by the leadership for backing is authored by Rep. Mills (D) Ark.

It provides that no wage increases may be permitted if, anywhere along the line, such increases would result in a rise in the price of a commodity on which a ceiling has been set.

Important provisos in this proposal, however, would allow wage increases, even if termed inflationary, if the cost of living had risen enough to justify them, or if the profits of a plant had increased. Thus, the Mills amendment would permit only those wage increases which could be absorbed by industry, except that adjustments could be made in hardship cases.

In return for giving this proposal their blessing, house leaders expect that many southerners will retreat from their support of present provisions in the bill which forbid farm price ceilings at below boom-year levels.

A major fight on the bill, is expected to come when Rep. Gore (D) Tenn., offers his amendment to substitute a measure freezing all prices, wages and rents throughout the country. Even supporters of this proposal, however, conceded today that it had "little chance" of acceptance, and therefore turned their attention to driving for amendments in the original bill.

TRUCK DRIVER SHOOTS WIFE

Turns Gun on Self After He Fires Three Times With Revolver.

(By United Press)

DAYTON — When Robert C. (Hank) Hickman arrived at his rooming house yesterday, he found his estranged wife, Mrs. Artie Lee Hickman, 22, waiting to collect the $10 he contributed every two weeks for support of their daughter, Barbara Jean, 4.

Four neighbors also were present. Hickman said he was going to the grocery store and left.

He returned a few minutes later, pulled a revolver from his shirt and fired twice at his wife. One bullet struck her in the arm and the other in the neck.

Wounded seriously she attempted to crawl under a chair but Hickman kicked the chair away, grabbed her and shot her a third time. The bullet struck Mrs. Hickman in the chest. Hickman then turned the gun on himself and fired a bullet into his head.

Both were dead before police arrived.

At the time of the shooting Hickman was free on $100 bond on charges of carrying concealed weapons and threatening to shoot his wife. He was arrested Oct. 23 at Mrs. Hickman's apartment after she complained he threatened to kill her and their small daughter, Barbara Jean.

DIME HONEYMOON ENDS IN JAIL BUT SHE'LL 'STICK TO HUSBAND'

DENVER—(U P)—The ten cent honeymoon of Merlin and Ladonne Schil, both 16 ended today in city jail but they announced a common determination to preserve their marriage against their parents' wrath.

They ran away together two weeks before their scheduled graduation from an Omaha high school last spring. Since then they had succeeded in hiding their difficult honeymoon trail but they broke down last week and sent Thanksgiving greetings to their parents.

The greetings were traced and last night Merlin and Ladonne were taken to jail to await arrival of the Schils and the Howells, Ladonne's parents, from Omaha.

"Merlin and I fell in love when we were juniors in high school," the pretty, blond, blue-eyed Ladonne said. "Things were so beautiful in May we decided there was no sense in waiting so we would elope and be married.

"We had only 50 cents but we went out on the highway and hitched a ride to New Mexico. We still had 40 cents left when we got to Raton."

Schil got a job for the day pitching hay. With the $5 he earned they bought a marriage license and paid a justice of the peace for the ceremony.

"Then we went to Pueblo, Colo., still hitchhiking," the bride said.

"We both got jobs. Merlin worked as a milk truck driver and a dishwasher at different restaurants. I waited on tables. We made ends meet and were very happy.

"Sometimes it was kind of discouraging but we both agreed to do our share. Whatever happens, though, I'm going to stick by Merlin."

Richland County Farm Youth Shows Prize Livestock

Farm boys and girls from Richland and nearly 40 other Ohio counties exhibited their best sheep and cattle today in the 17th annual Cleveland livestock show.

Judging was to start today and the show will close Thursday night with an auction of the prize-winning cattle and sheep. Approximately 175 boys and girls from 10 to 20 years old entered 265 steers and 275 lambs in the show.

Author Louis Bromfield was scheduled to speak tonight at a dinner sponsored by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce for the boys and girls. Also on the program will be W. H. Palmer, professor of agriculture at Ohio State university.

One of the contenders in the show was Myfawny Lintner, 12-year-old Fredericktown girl, who entered the grand champion lamb last year.

Most of the farm youngsters who entered livestock are members of the 4-H clubs and Future Farmer organizations in Ohio's rural districts.

DIES AT AGE 80

JURY REJECTS DAMAGE CLAIM

Rules for Defendant In Suit For $13,125.

A jury of seven men and five women in Richland county common pleas court late yesterday returned a verdict for the defendant, Ollin W. Allen of Piqua, O., in a $13,125 damage suit resulting from a fatal traffic accident on U. S route 42 northeast of Mansfield last February.

The trial lasted two days. Jurors reached their decision in about 45 minutes. They were taken to the scene of the fatal crash yesterday afternoon.

The damage judgment was sought by Margaret Lee, administratrix of the estate of Mrs. Margery Parcenue, Mansfield, fatally injured in the collision of an automobile and a truck. Allen was the truck owner.

Atty. Joseph A. Bayer of Mansfield represented the plaintiff. Attys. Long, Anderson and Green of Shelby were the defense lawyers.

ON COMMITTEE

Donald Baxter of Mansfield was announced today as a member of the general committee arranging the Plum Brook employes' dance next Friday at the Rainbow gardens on U. S. Route 20 near Fremont.

Open to all workers in the Plum Brook ordnance works at Sandusky, the dance will feature the music of Johnny "Scat" Davis, nationally known band leader.

Exciting Games Turned In By City League Cage Teams

Sport Podge by REX HESS

"There isn't a whole lot of difference between high school and college football." Paul Brown, the young fellow who went from Massillon high school to Ohio State and in three short months became one of the top coaches in the country, told Ashland Rotarians and their guests yesterday noon.

"Fundamentally it's the same game," Brown declared. "The boys are a little bit older and a little bit bigger, and they play a little bit better brand of football, but they are still boys, and the game is still football.

"If there's any real difference between college and high school football it's in the defensive end of the game. At Massillon we could set up a defensive system for a coming game, practice it all week, and use it all through the game. At Ohio State we are lucky if we can go through one quarter without changing our defense. The boys on the telephone up in the top of the stands don't take all afternoon finding out how to play against your defense."

Paul Brown, who is to be the speaker at The News-Journal's seventh annual football banquet for Mansfield high's Tygers Jan 5, is a candid sort of a person When he makes a mistake he'll tell you about it.

"When we played Missouri we had only 15 plays, a punt and a prayer," said Brown. "At the end of the season we were using 52 plays. And we needed more than 15 against Missouri. That was my fault. We should have had more. They gave us a very bad afternoon, and I'm glad they went on to have a good season after we beat them.

"Missouri was just the third best team we played all season. Michigan was the best and Northwestern was next.

"Against Wisconsin we planned just one defense, the seven-diamond, and we needed more than one defense that afternoon. That was my fault again. They had a good passer and they tossed against that defense all day. There wasn't much we could do about it. We had just one defense prepared, and we were stuck with it. It was just a question of who was going to score the most points.

"I realize now," said Brown, "that I must have sounded pretty silly when I went to Columbus last spring and told them that we were going to keep in training, that we weren't going to smoke, or drink or dissipate in any way.

"It seems that some colleges don't play that way. Some of the teams we played gave us an awful riding about what good little boys we were. But we licked those teams.

"We had dedicated ourselves to an ideal and we gave it everything we had. And today we can look back on the season with a great deal of satisfaction Whether it's football or dramatics or what, you have to give it all you've got if you're going to get any satisfaction out of it.

"I've been shocked in some quarters for calling my players kids." Brown told the Ashland group But they are kids and they got a lot of fun out of playing. If you had seen the look in their eyes when they came off the field after playing a good game you'd know they are kids.

"That was specially true in the Michigan game. And what a ball game that was! Rock-em sock-em football! I was amazed myself at the way those boys kept fighting back that day.

"They like to be considered grown-up men, but they are just kids. And they are just as impressionable as high school kids. Regardless of what we told them, we couldn't make them take that Illinois game seriously, just because they read in the papers that they were to win easily. They won, but not easily.

Pick AP All-Ohio Gridders

Six Seniors, Five Juniors on College Honor Team.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Six seniors and five juniors entered Ohio's football hall of fame today as coaches, sports writers and officials voted them berths of the 1941 Associated Press honorary all-Ohio conference team.

Seven schools of the 20-college conference were represented on the first team, Ohio Northern, Heidelberg, Bowling Green and Case getting two places each, while single spots went to athletes from Muskingum, Wittenberg and Wooster.

The Associated Press acted only as a "board of elections," counting ballots submitted by the coaches, writers and officials, and giving the coveted positions to the leading vote-getters

Boasting a line averaging 190 pounds and more than six feet in height, and a fast, triple-threat backfield averaging 179, the first team had everything.

But most of all, it had a blocking back, who not only won a first string berth without carrying the ball once, but was rated the outstanding player in the conference

He's Stan Yoder, 196-pound "path-clearer" for the Bowling Green Falcons, who led the list in the balloting to win the honorary captaincy. And on top of that he was designated by four coaches whose teams opposed the Falcons as the best player they had seen in action in the league.

Yoder was injured just before the season started, was out of the Wooster contest which wound up in a tie, and played only a few minutes in the Akron game, which the Zippers took by 8-0 for the Bee-Gees' long defeat His fine defensive work and his great blocking were credited for the stretch drive of the Falcons—and Coach Bob Whittaker said the big fellow was the main reason for the Bee-Gee rise to fame.

The ends, W. Evans of Muskingum and Mike Yurcheshen of Case, are holdovers from last year's first string, but the remainder of the team "came up from the ranks."

R Rossi of Wittenberg won the center post, not missing a minute of play as the Lutherans were shorn of their conference and state titles, and he gave Yoder his closest competition for the "star of the league" designation.

Despite its fall from the heights, Wittenberg placed five men on the first three teams, sharing honors with Ohio Northern's Polar Bears Bowling Green placed four, Denison, Case and Heidelberg three each, Muskingum, Wooster Kenyon and Kent State two each and Otterbein and Mount Union, one each.

Brown Gives Help Praise

Says Head Coaches Get Too Much Attention.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A head coach who says "too much importance is placed on the head coach" is Paul Brown of Ohio State.

"For instance," he told 400 alumni and well wishers last night at the largest Ohio State fans' turnout in the city's history, "Fritz Mackey gave us the idea for the defense we used against Michigan."

Mackey, who has charge of the Buck tackles, Hugh McGranahan, tutor of the guards and centers, and Trevor Rees, who handles the frosh, accompanied Brown to the meeting.

Telling how all his assistants help out, Brown said "every Sunday night in the season we hold a meeting and decide on our defense We have arguments about it, but once our plans are made, it is the rule that we must stick to them If we win, that's fine. If we lose, well—that's part of living."

Because he came up directly from Massillon Washington high school and in his first year in the big leagues, Brown keeps getting questions about the difference between high school and college coaching.

He declared the "difference is not very great, for you have the same fundamentals and the same necessity for work, sincerity and living right," but he said defensive play held a big difference. "College coaches have a man up above telephoning down what the opposition it trying to do, and you have to keep shifting your defense.

"The psychology of the players also is more difficult to handle," he went on. "You have so many experts telling by what score you will win or lose, and our boys can read—unfortunately."

Windsor Keeps Up Scoring Pace

Bud Windsor and Margaret Baker turned in an 1127 total to pace the mixed doubles league again last night at Colony alleys, as Windsor took individual honors on a 606 total.

Mary McMullen led the women with a 524 total.

PICK CAPTAIN

ASHLAND —(AP)— Jack Saunders, center for Poland, O., will captain Ashland college's football team next year.

MT. GILEAD TRIMS SUNBURY QUINTET

MT. GILEAD — The Mt. Gilead high school cagers defeated a weak Sunbury five here last night, 44 to 14.

A slow first half produced only 21 points but the Indians came back with thirty points in the second to win in a walk, high scoring honors went to Patterson of Mt. Gilead who had seven field goals and four foul shots to his credit.

Mt. Gilead reserves won 34 to 7. Dunbuch of Mt. Gilead getting fourteen points for high score.

Lou Boudreau Named Chief

24-Year-Old Picked To Manage the Indians.

By RAY BLOSSER

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians plucked Lou Boudreau from their own ranks to become one of the youngest managers in major league baseball history, and the flashy shortstop promptly pledged today that the Tribe would change into a fighting ball club.

The Indians, sometimes bitingly referred to as a good team on paper because they folded so easily, "will eat, sleep and drink baseball," declared their 24-year-old new playing pilot. "My objective is a hustling ball club. There will be no lying down."

Boudreau takes over the job vacated by promotion of Roger Peckinpaugh—who managed the New York Yankees the last two weeks of the 1941 season while only 23 years old—to the top front office desk as vice president.

Boudreau's rivals, Joe Cronin and Stanley (Bucky) Harris, were 26 and 27, respectively, when they first became American league managers. It was scarcely more than two seasons ago that Lou joined the Indians after brief minor league seasoning with the Cedar Rapids, Ia., and the Buffalo, N. Y., clubs

"I realize I'm young but I feel I can do the job given the confidence of the players and the fans," he commented. "I feel we'll make our goal—first division It will be harder if the army takes Bob Feller, but we're through making the same mistakes in September that we make in April."

Boudreau plans "something like chalk talks" to train the players—rookies particularly—in throwing to the correct bases. The club house will be made more comfortable so the players will feel like spending more time in it. The Tribe's dugout at League park also will be moved closer to the playing field—partly with the idea of affording some privacy from the customers of the nearby field boxes.

President Alva Bradley made the appointment after worrying for weeks over Boudreau's youth. "I definitely had in mind somebody else," Bradley disclosed, "but the more I thought of it the more I thought here's a fellow who knows our situation and all the players. So I called him on the telephone Monday evening, and we talked it over yesterday and agreed on a two-year contract."

Boudreau is married and has a daughter nearly three years old. An inveterate time-wheiler-away on pinball machines, he had only this regret on his selection. "I'm afraid my pinball career is over. I've more to think about than winning free games."

Westinghouse Trips Defending Champions

Yuncker Sports Edge City News, Blue Goose Quintet Beats O. P. S.

LAST NIGHT the City league fans were treated to one of the finest basketball shows ever presented by the league. All three games were decided in the last periods of play and all were fought like grudge battles.

Westinghouse surprised the fans in the opener when they displayed a stellar brand of defensive play to beat the league defending champs. The Athletic Supply team took the rap on the short end of the 40 to 21 score. Westinghouse exhibited a smooth working team and a threat for the league title.

The Athletics opened the scoring but the Electrics dumped in four baskets followed by another quartet of goals to lead at the half 22 to 13. The scoring in the second half was evenly divided.

* * *

Poole hit the hoop for 15 points to lead the Westies while McGinty and Morgan tallied nine apiece. McGinty, last year high school center, hit his stride on underbasket and pivot shots while Morgan threw them in from everywhere. McCarty and Shade stood out for the Westies on both offense and defense, the former scoring 12 points for his share.

The second game started out like a walk-away for the Yuncker Sports but the City News quickly closed the gap and held the score down losing only by four points, 32 to 28

Yuncker Sports, composed of county league players from Lucas and Lexington, brings new talent to the league. Gilliland, the one-hand sho. artist of last year's Lucas team, scored 10 points to lead the "young bloods" while Franks dropped in three buckets and a foul for seven.

* * *

Martin was the big gun for the News team when they made their fourth period bid. He threw in four buckets in quick succession but that wasn't quite enough to tie up the game His total for the evening was 17 points. Russell, who formerly played on the championship Mayflower team in the Church league, looked good on the defense.

* * *

Again the Blue Goose had one of these typical fourth quarter stands that are typical of Blue Goose teams. The last game of the evening ended in a blaze of buckets when they dumped in 14 points while the Ohio Public Service was garnering only one in the last [illegible] ds of play.

* * *

O. P. S. [illegible] ished the Sohioans for three periods, tying up the count twice in the third. Then the Sohioans went wild, building up the score to a 38 to 25 win. Matt Hager kept the Sohioans in the running for the first half with 11 tallies. The former Springfield Township bucketballer hit the hoop from everywhere.

Bob Crawford went to town on his pivot shot and kept the bank board rattling to the tune of 17 points for the Electrics Burton, Mitchell and Oswalt backed him up with a fast floor game.

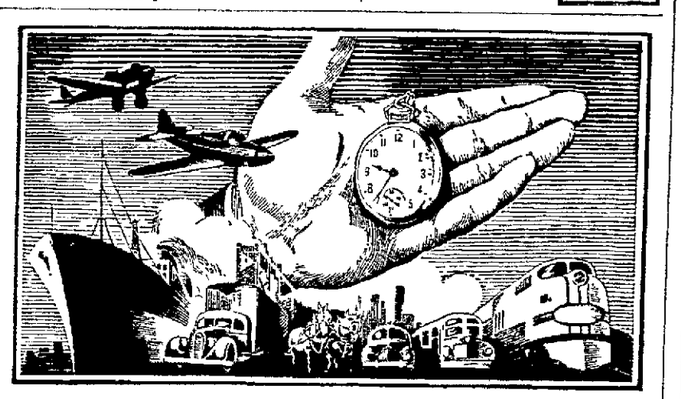
It tells you more than the time..



Your watch is a symbol of American achievement in manufacturing methods undreamed of by the craftsmen of yesteryear. Precision methods are costly, yet precision-made products in large volume bring comforts and conveniences into your daily life.

Something more than beer...

Did you know that Budweiser's process is the most expensive brewing process in the world? In addition to the costliest of ingredients, it calls for exclusive technical equipment and endless precision operations. You can sense all this in the distinctive taste that sets Budweiser apart from all other beers. The product of generations of skill, yes... a truly great brew... and yet Budweiser is something more. It is a symbol... of gracious living, of hospitality, of moderation. It is a companion of good friends, good foods and good taste.

Best Offensive Gridders Are Buckeyes or Badgers

By STEVE SNIDER

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Wisconsin and Ohio State, two of the poorest defensive teams in the Big Ten, made a grand slam of the five individual offensive championships in final statistics released today by the Western conference service bureau.

Sophomore Marlin (Pat) Harder, Wisconsin's great fullback, led the league in scoring with 58 points and topped all backs in yards by rushing with a total of 590 in six games for an average of 5.6 yards per try.

Len Seelinger, Harder's sophomore running mate, led the passers with a total gain of 419 yards, an average of 69.8 yards per game. In 48 attempts, his percentage of completions was .542. Dave Schreiner, Wisconsin's all-conference end, led all pass receivers with 12 receptions for a total of 249 yards.

Top man in the league on total offense—passing and rushing—was Ohio State's Jack Graf, star fullback who missed the Northwestern game, only one the Bucks lost. In four games, Graf rushed 325 yards and passed for 178, a total of 503 yards and an average of 125.6 yards per game. Graf also was second in scoring with 36 points.

Other scoring leaders: Bill Daley, Minnesota, and Bill De Correvont, Northwestern, and Schreiner, 24.

Capt. Bob Westfall of Michigan and Daley settled their duel for second place in the rushing statistics in the last game of the season, Westfall winning out by six yards.

Westfall rushed 490 yards, averaging 98 per game and 4.4 yards per try. Daley totaled 484 yards, averaging 96.8 per game and 4.7 each try. Gray was fourth with a net of 325 yards, averaging 81.2 per game.

The four best passers in the league all were sophomores—Seelinger, Graham, Tom Kuzma of Michigan and Hillenbrand. Capt. Bruce Smith of Minnesota and Graf were the only regular throwers to finish the season without having a single toss intercepted. Smith completed nine, Graf, eight.

With a completion percentage of .509, Graham gained 377 yards for an average of 62.8 per game; Kuzma's .444 percentage produced 267 yards, an average of 53.4 and Hillenbrand's .303 percentage brought a total of 213 yards for a 52.7 yardage.

Kuzma was second to Graf in total offense with 592 yards in five games, a higher total than Graf's although his average was 118.4 yards per game to the Buck fullback's 125.4.

Dick Fisher, also of Ohio State, was third with an average of 115.2 and Smith, Minnesota's all-American candidate, was fourth with an average of 105.2 yards although he played little against Northwestern and not quite a half against Michigan.

By teams, Minnesota, of course, was the Big Ten's best both on offense and defense.

They ranked this way: Minnesota, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern, Indiana, Illinois, Purdue and Iowa. On defense: Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio State and Illinois.

Boudreau to Manage Tribe

Lou Boudreau, 24-year-old shortstop for the Cleveland Indians, is pictured with the Tribe's president, Alva Bradley (right), after he was appointed playing-manager, succeeding Roger Peckinpaugh, who was elevated to the vice-presidency of the club. Veteran baseball observers believed that this appointment makes Boudreau the youngest big-league manager in the history of the national game.

CHESTERVILLE DEFEATS LEXINGTON QUINTET

LEXINGTON—Chesterville edged Lexington high school on the Lexington floor here last night by a 30 to 24 score. Leading all the way, they were never headed.

High scoring honors went to Chapman of Chesterville who dropped six field goals in for a total of 12 points.

Laura Maser Has High 526 Score

Laura Maser showed the way to women bowlers in the Tuesday Matinee league with a 526 total on games of 179-192-155. Her 192 game was also high for the league.

THEATERS

Wrestlight Highlight.

Air Drama.

Revolving around the thousands of American youths recruited in private schools for the air service, "Flying Cadets," featuring William Gargan, Edmund Lowe and Peggy Moran opens today at the Madison. The story presents Lowe in the role of a daredevil hero of the skyways during World war days who doesn't realize that his age is overtaking him. His kid brother, played by Frank Albertson, brings him to serve as a "Name front" for his flying school and friction develops. "Small Town Deb," with Jane Withers is the co-attraction.

Abbott and Costello.

Crime Picture.

Ralph Bellamy as the suave sleuth Ellery Queen solves another crime in the current attraction at the Park, "Ellery Queen and the Perfect Crime." Featuring Ralph Bellamy, Margaret Lindsay and Charley Grapewin the plot revolves around the detective's efforts to solve the murder of a financier who had betrayed the confidence of his friends. Frank Craven and Edgar Buchanan have the leading roles in "The Richest Man In Town," the co-attraction. Eileen O'Hearn and Roger Pryor also appear in the picture dealing with small town life.

Maisie Comedy.

Exciting Games Turned In By City League Cage Teams

Sport Podge by REX HESS

"There isn't a whole lot of difference between high school and college football," Paul Brown, the young fellow who went from Massillon high school to Ohio State and in three short months became one of the top coaches in the country, told Ashland Rotarians and their guests yesterday noon.

"Fundamentally it's the same game," Brown declared. "The boys are a little bit older and a little bit bigger, and they play a little bit better brand of football, but they are still boys, and the game is still football.

"If there's any real difference between college and high school football it's in the defensive end of the game. At Massillon we could set up a defensive system for a coming game, practice it all week, and use it all through the game. At Ohio State we are lucky if we can go through one quarter without changing our defense. The boys on the telephone up in the top of the stands don't take all afternoon finding out how to play against your defense."

Paul Brown, who is to be the speaker at The News-Journal's seventh annual football banquet for Mansfield high's Tygers Jan 5, is a candid sort of a person When he makes a mistake he'll tell you about it.

"When we played Missouri we had only 15 plays, a punt and a prayer," said Brown. "At the end of the season we were using 52 plays. And we needed more than 15 against Missouri. That was my fault. We should have had more. They gave us a very bad afternoon, and I'm glad they went on to have a good season after we beat them.

"Missouri was just the third best team we played all season Michigan was the best and Northwestern was next.

"Against Wisconsin we planned just one defense, the seven-diamond, and we needed more than one defense that afternoon. That was my fault again. They had a good passer and they tossed against that defense all day. There wasn't much we could do about it. We had just one defense prepared, and we were stuck with it. It was just a question of who was going to score the most points.

"I realize now," said Brown, "that I must have sounded pretty silly when I went to Columbus last spring and told them that we were going to keep in training, that we weren't going to smoke, or drink or dissipate in any way.

"It seems that some colleges don't play that way. Some of the teams we played gave us an awful riding about what good little boys we were. But we licked those teams.

"We had dedicated ourselves to an ideal and we gave it everything we had. And today we can look back on the season with a great deal of satisfaction. Whether it's football or dramatics or what, you have to give it all you've got if you're going to get any satisfaction out of it.

"I've been criticized in some quarters for calling my players kids" Brown told the Ashland group But they are kids and they got a lot of fun out of playing If you had seen the look in their eyes when they came off the field after playing a good game, you'd know they are kids.

"That was specially true in the Michigan game And what a ball game that was! Rock-em, sock-em football! I was amazed myself at the way those boys kept fighting back that day

"They like to be considered grown-up men, but they are just kids. And they are just as impressionable as high school kids. Regardless of what we told them, we couldn't make them take that Illinois game seriously, just because they read in the papers that they were to win easily. They won, but not easily.

Pick AP All-Ohio Gridders

Six Seniors, Five Juniors on College Honor Team.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Six seniors and five juniors entered Ohio's football hall of fame today as coaches, sports writers and officials voted them berths of the 1941 Associated Press honorary all-Ohio conference team.

Seven schools of the 20-college conference were represented on the first team, Ohio Northern, Heidelberg, Bowling Green and Case getting two places each, while single spots went to athletes from Muskingum, Wittenberg and Wooster.

The Associated Press acted only as a "board of elections," counting ballots submitted by the coaches, writers and officials, and giving the coveted positions to the leading vote-getters

Boasting a line averaging 190 pounds and more than six feet in height, and a fast, triple-threat backfield averaging 179, the first team had everything.

But most of all, it had a blocking back, who not only won a first string berth without carrying the ball once, but was rated the outstanding player in the conference.

He's Stan Yoder, 196-pound "path-clearer" for the Bowling Green Falcons, who led the list in the balloting to win the honorary captaincy. And on top of that he was designated by four coaches whose teams opposed the Falcons as the best player they had seen in action in the league

Yoder was injured just before the season started, was out of the Wooster contest which wound up in a tie, and played only a few minutes in the Akron game, which the Zippers took by 8-0 for the Bee-Gees' long defeat His fine defensive work, and his great blocking, were credited for the stretch drive of the Falcons—and Coach Bob Whittaker said the big fellow was the main reason for the Bee-Gee rise to fame.

The ends, W. Evans of Muskingum and Mike Yurcheshen of Case, are holdovers from last year's first string, but the remainder of the team "came up from the ranks."

R. Rossi of Wittenberg won the center post, not missing a minute of play as the Lutherans were shorn of their conference and state titles, and he gave Yoder his closest competition for the "star of the league" designation.

Despite its fall from the heights, Wittenberg placed five men on the first three teams, sharing honors with Ohio Northern's Polar Bears Bowling Green placed four, Denison, Case and Heidelberg three each. Muskingum, Wooster, Kenyon and Kent State two each, and Otterbein and Mount Union, one each.

Brown Gives Help Praise

Says Head Coaches Get Too Much Attention.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A head coach who says "too much importance is placed on the head coach" is Paul Brown of Ohio State.

"For instance," he told 400 alumni and well wishers last night at the largest Ohio State fans' turnout in the city's history, "Fritz Mackey gave us the idea for the defense we used against Michigan."

Mackey, who has charge of the Buck tackles, Hugh McGranahan, tutor of the guards and centers, and Trevor Rees, who handles the frosh, accompanied Brown to the meeting.

Telling how all his assistants help out, Brown said "every Sunday night in the season we hold a meeting and decide on our defense. We have arguments about it, but once our plans are made, it is the rule that we must stick to them. If we win, that's fine. If we lose, well—that's part of living."

Because he came up directly from Massillon Washington high school and in his first year in the big leagues, Brown keeps getting questions about the difference between high school and college coaching.

He declared the "difference is not very great, for you have the same fundamentals and the same necessity for work, sincerity and living right," but he said defensive play held a big difference. "College coaches have a man up above telephoning down what the opposition it trying to do, and you have to keep shifting your defense.

"The psychology of the players also is more difficult to handle," he went on. "You have so many experts telling by what score you will win or lose and our boys can read—unfortunately."

Windsor Keeps Up Scoring Pace

Bud Windsor and Margaret Baker turned in an 1127 total to pace the mixed doubles league again last night at Colony alleys, as Windsor took individual honors on a 606 total.

Mary McMullen led the women with a 524 total.

PICK CAPTAIN

ASHLAND —(AP)— Jack Saunders, center for Poland, O., will captain Ashland college's football team next year.

MT. GILEAD TRIMS SUNBURY QUINTET

MT. GILEAD — The Mt. Gilead high school cagers defeated a weak Sunbury five here last night, 44 to 14.

A slow first half produced only 21 points but the Indians came back with thirty points in the second to win in a walk. high scoring honors went to Patterson of Mt. Gilead who had seven field goals and four foul shots to his credit.

Mt. Gilead reserves won 34 to 7. Dunbuch of Mt. Gilead getting fourteen points for high score.

Lou Boudreau Named Chief

24-Year-Old Picked To Manage the Indians.

By RAY BLOSSER

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians plucked Lou Boudreau from their own ranks to become one of the youngest managers in major league baseball history, and the flashy shortstop promptly pledged today that the Tribe would change into a fighting ball club.

The Indians, sometimes bitingly referred to as a good team on paper because they folded so easily, "will eat, sleep and drink baseball," declared their 24-year-old new playing pilot. "My objective is a hustling ball club. There will be no lying down."

Boudreau takes over the job vacated by promotion of Roger Peckinpaugh—who managed the New York Yankees the last two weeks of the 1941 season while only 23 years old—to the top front office desk as vice president.

Boudreau's rivals, Joe Cronin and Stanley (Bucky) Harris, were 26 and 27, respectively, when they first became American league managers. It was scarcely more than two seasons ago that Lou joined the Indians after brief minor league seasoning with the Cedar Rapids, Ia., and the Buffalo, N. Y., clubs.

"I realize I'm young but I feel I can do the job, given the confidence of the players and the fans," he commented. "I feel we'll make our goal—first division. It will be harder if the army takes Bob Feller, but we're through making the same mistakes in September that we make in April."

Boudreau plans "something like chalk talks" to train the players—rookies particularly—in throwing to the correct bases. The club house will be made more comfortable so the players will feel like spending more time in it. The Tribe's dugout at League park also will be moved closer to the playing field—partly with the idea of affording some privacy from the customers of the nearby field boxes.

President Alva Bradley made the appointment after worrying for weeks over Boudreau's youth. "I definitely had in mind somebody else," Bradley disclosed, "but the more I thought of it the more I thought here's a fellow who knows our situation and all the players. So I called him on the telephone Monday evening, and we talked it over yesterday and agreed on a two-year contract."

Boudreau is married and has a daughter nearly three years old. An inveterate time-wheiler-away on pinball machines, he had only this regret on his selection: "I'm afraid my pinball career is over. I've more to think about than winning free games."

Westinghouse Trips Defending Champions

Yuncker Sports Edge City News, Blue Goose Quintet Beats O. P. S.

LAST NIGHT the City league fans were treated to one of the finest basketball shows ever presented by the league. All three games were decided in the last periods of play and all were fought like grudge battles.

Westinghouse surprised the fans in the opener when they displayed a stellar brand of defensive play to beat the league defending champs. The Athletic Supply team took the rap on the short end of the 40 to 21 score. Westinghouse exhibited a smooth working team and a threat for the league title.

The Athletics opened the scoring but the Electrics dumped in four baskets followed by another quartet of goals to lead at the half 22 to 13. The scoring in the second half was evenly divided.

* * *

Poole hit the hoop for 15 points to lead the Westies while McGinty and Morgan tallied nine apiece. McGinty, last year high school center, hit his stride on underbasket and pivot shots while Morgan threw them in from everywhere. McCarty and Shade stood out for the Westies on both offense and defense, the former scoring 12 points for his share.

The second game started out like a walk-away for the Yuncker Sports but the City News quickly closed the gap and held the score down losing only by four points, 32 to 28.

Yuncker Sports, composed of county league players from Lucas and Lexington, brings new talent to the league. Gilliland, the one-hand shot artist of last year's Lucas team, scored 10 points to lead the "young bloods" while Franks dropped in three buckets and a foul for seven.

* * *

Martin was the big gun for the News team when they made their fourth period bid. He threw in four buckets in quick succession but that wasn't quite enough to tie up the game. His total for the evening was 17 points. Russell, who formerly played on the championship Mayflower team in the Church league, looked good on the defense.

* * *

Again the Blue Goose had one of these typical fourth quarter stands that are typical of Blue Goose teams. The last game of the evening ended in a blaze of buckets when they dumped in 14 points while the Ohio Public Service was garnering only one in the last [illegible] ds of play.

* * *

O. P. S. [illegible] ished the Sohioans for three periods, tying up the count twice in the third. Then the Sohioans went wild, building up the score to a 38 to 25 win. Matt Hager kept the Sohioans in the running for the first half with 11 tallies. The former Springfield Township bucketballer hit the hoop from everywhere.

Bob Crawford went to town on his pivot shot and kept the bank board rattling to the tune of 17 points for the Electrics. Burton, Mitchell and Oswalt backed him up with a fast floor game.

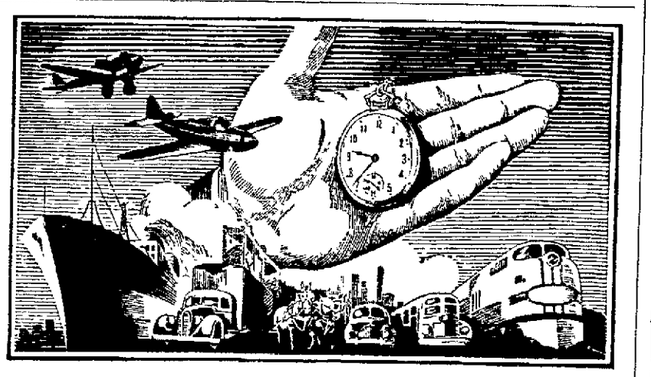
It tells you more than the time..

Your watch is a symbol of American achievement in manufacturing methods undreamed of by the craftsmen of yesteryear. Precision methods are costly, yet precision-made products in large volume bring comforts and conveniences into your daily life.



Something more than beer...

Did you know that Budweiser's process is the most expensive brewing process in the world? In addition to the costliest of ingredients, it calls for exclusive technical equipment and endless precision operations. You can sense all this in the distinctive taste that sets Budweiser apart from all other beers. The product of generations of skill, yes... a truly great brew... and yet Budweiser is something more. It is a symbol... of gracious living, of hospitality, of moderation. It is a companion of good friends, good foods and good taste.

Best Offensive Gridders Are Buckeyes or Badgers

By STEVE SNIDER

CHICAGO — (U.P) — Wisconsin and Ohio State, two of the poorest defensive teams in the Big Ten, made a grand slam of the five individual offensive championships in final statistics released today by the Western conference service bureau.

Sophomore Marlin (Pat) Harder, Wisconsin's great fullback, led the league in scoring with 58 points and topped all backs in yards by rushing with a total of 590 in six games for an average of 5.6 yards per try.

Len Seelinger, Harder's sophomore running mate, led the passers with a total gain of 419 yards, an average of 69.8 yards per game. In 48 attempts, his percentage of completions was .542. Dave Schreiner, Wisconsin's all-conference end, led all pass receivers with 12 receptions for a total of 249 yards.

Top man in the league on total offense—passing and rushing—was Ohio State's Jack Graf, star fullback who missed the Northwestern game, only one the Bucks lost. In four games, Graf rushed 325 yards and passed for 178, a total of 503 yards and an average of 125.6 yards per game. Graf also was second in scoring with 36 points.

Other scoring leaders: Bill Daley, Minnesota, and Bill De Correvont, Northwestern, and Schreiner, 24.

Capt. Bob Westfall of Michigan and Daley settled their duel for second place in the rushing statistics in the last game of the season, Westfall winning out by six yards.

Westfall rushed 490 yards, averaging 98 per game and 4.4 yards per try. Daley totaled 484 yards, averaging 96.8 per game and 4.7 each try. Gray was fourth with a net of 325 yards, averaging 81.2 per game.

The four best passers in the league all were sophomores—Seelinger, Graham, Tom Kuzma of Michigan and Hillenbrand. Capt. Bruce Smith of Minnesota and Graf were the only regular throwers to finish the season without having a single toss intercepted. Smith completed nine, Graf, eight.

With a completion percentage of .509, Graham gained 377 yards for an average of 62.8 per game; Kuzma's .444 percentage produced 267 yards, an average of 53.4 and Hillenbrand's .303 percentage brought a total of 213 yards for a 52.7 yardage.

Kuzma was second to Graf in total offense with 592 yards in five games, a higher total than Graf's although his average was 118.4 yards per game to the Buck fullback's 125.4.

Dick Fisher, also of Ohio State, was third with an average of 115.2 and Smith, Minnesota's all-American candidate, was fourth with an average of 105.2 yards although he played little against Northwestern and not quite a half against Michigan.

By teams, Minnesota, of course, was the Big Ten's best both on offense and defense.

They ranked this way: Minnesota, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern, Indiana, Illinois, Purdue and Iowa. On defense: Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio State and Illinois.

Boudreau to Manage Tribe

Lou Boudreau, 24-year-old shortstop for the Cleveland Indians, is pictured with the Tribe's president, Alva Bradley (right), after he was appointed playing-manager, succeeding Roger Peckinpaugh, who was elevated to the vice-presidency of the club. Veteran baseball observers believed that this appointment makes Boudreau the youngest big-league manager in the history of the national game.

Simpson Beats Madison Reserves

Holding Madison reserves to one point in the last period, John Simpson Junior high hoopsters staged a last-half rally yesterday to win their opening game of the cage season, 19 to 16.

The two teams were tied at 4 to 4 in the first quarter, and Madison led, 12 to 9, at the half. Simpson came back to tie it up again, 15-15, in the third period, and outscored Madison 4 to 1 in the final stanza.

* * *

Zivkoff led the scoring with five points.

THEATERS

Wrestlight Highlight.

Air Drama.

Revolving around the thousands of American youths recruited in private schools for the air service, "Flying Cadets," featuring William Gargan, Edmund Lowe and Peggy Moran opens today at the Madison. The story presents Lowe in the role of a daredevil hero of the skyways during World war days who doesn't realize that his age is overtaking him. His kid brother, played by Frank Albertson, brings him to serve as a "Name front" for his flying school and friction develops. "Small Town Deb," with Jane Withers is the co-attraction.

Abbott and Costello.

"Hold That Ghost," featuring Bud Abbott and Lou Costello is the attraction opening Thursday at the Ritz. Charles Ruggles and Ellen Drew are featured in the second picture, "The Parson of Panamint."

Crime Picture.

Ralph Bellamy as the suave sleuth Ellery Queen solves another crime in the current attraction at the Park, "Ellery Queen and the Perfect Crime." Featuring Ralph Bellamy, Margaret Lindsay and Charley Grapewin the plot revolves around the detective's efforts to solve the murder of a financier who had betrayed the confidence of his friends. Frank Craven and Edgar Buchanan have the leading roles in "The Richest Man In Town," the co-attraction. Eileen O'Hearn and Roger Pryor also appear in the picture dealing with small town life.

Maisie Comedy.

VITA-FRESH

BATTERY-RAISED CHICKEN

The Finest Chicken You Ever Ate! IT'S NEW! IT'S DIFFERENT! VITA-FRESH is raised the new, modern way in sanitary Battery Brooders. Chickens never touch the floor, but are kept in strict confinement — eating only clean wholesome feed that insures a delicate flavor. Lack of exercise produces a soft-meated, tender, delicious bird with none of the tough, stringy fibers found in ordinary range-reared chicken. VITA-FRESH is perfectly cleaned and cellophane wrapped for your protection. Order some this week.

PAM—Clearing Memory. By A. W. Brewerton

AN AIR-MAIL LETTER FOR ME! FROM PORTLAND, OREGON! I WONDER--
11-26
IT IS! IT'S FROM CAREY GRAHAM! BLESS HIS HEART! SAYS HE KNEW HIS MOTHER SOON AS HE SAW HER. SHE'S AN ANGEL! SHE WAS NEARLY PROSTRATED WITH JOY AT SEEING HIM!
---LOTS OF THINGS ARE COMING BACK TO HIM NOW. HIS MEMORY IS CLEARING UP RAPIDLY AND HE'S FEELING GRAND! THEY ARE ALL SO HAPPY AND THANKFUL. HIS GIRL PEGGY IS A DARLING, SENDS HER LOVE! WHAT A SWEET LETTER!
THEY'VE BEEN SO SUCCESSFUL, CHIEF, THEY'RE GETTING BOLD NOW! PERHAPS THEY THINK THAT MONEY WAS NOT MARKED! BUT IT WAS, ALL OF IT! NOW, I FIGURE THAT BOY'S MEMORY WILL GRADUALLY RETURN AND HE CAN GIVE US A DESCRIPTION OF HIS CAPTORS!

WESTINGHOUSE STOCK HOLDS STEADY TREND

Market Moves Indecisively In Narrow Range During Slow Session.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks shifted indecisively and generally within a narrow range today.

Losses were slightly in the majority at a quiet opening but here and there the tendency was toward some betterment near the second hour. Rails were inclined to slip. Dealings were slow.

On relatively steady ground at times were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Dow Chemical, Owens-Illinois, and Texas Corp., the last named recording a 1941 high. Unable to make much progress were Goodrich, Glenn Martin, American Can, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and N. Y. Central.

Commodities and bonds mixed. Investment quarters and students of business trends found something of interest in the national industrial conference board's index of net income of 113 industrial companies for the third quarter. Based on returns for the years 1935-1939 as 100 the September quarter profit measure was 160 compared with 157 in the second quarter and 163 for the final three months of 1940.

This year's third quarter profit index, the conference board pointed out, was 14 per cent under the 1929 high although the federal reserve index of industrial production was 40 per cent above 1929.

FACES CHARGE

GALION—Mrs. Dorothy Bybee, alias Jackie Carson, Marshall, Mo., who was arrested here last Friday on information that she was under indictment at St. Louis for the fraudulent use of the mails, was taken to Cleveland Tuesday noon by a United States marshal for arraignment.

Officers said the indictment grew out of a charge that she was a member of a gang which was engaged in an automobile accident racket, the mail charge growing out of the fact that checks for the alleged claims were sent through the mail.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

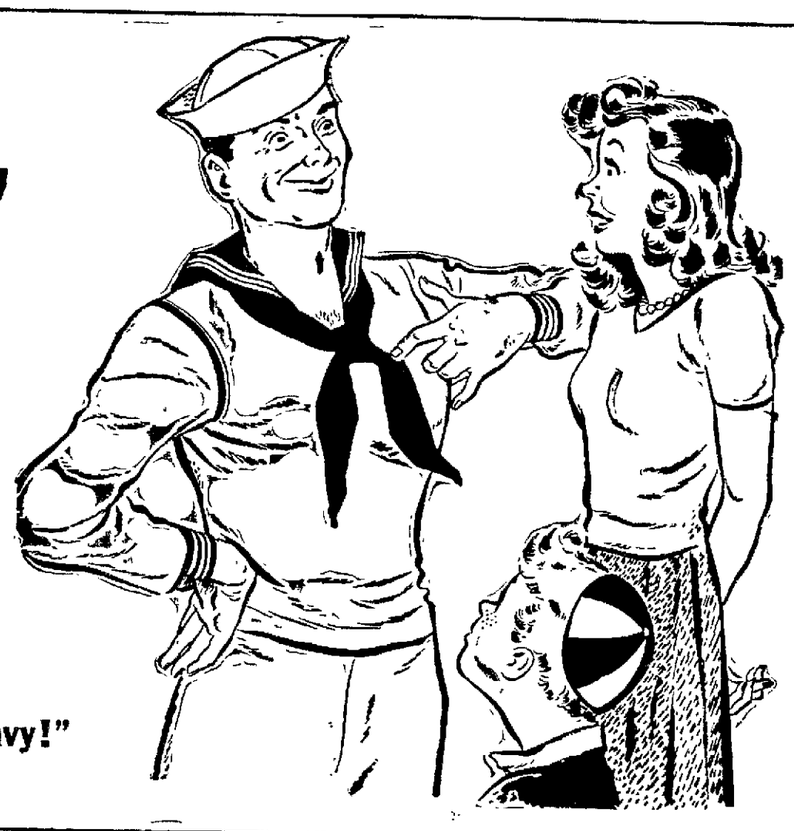
"Imagine me, steering a Destroyer!"

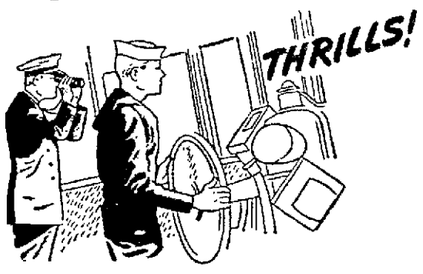


"And I've had two pay raises in only eight months! I'll say you can't beat Uncle Sam's Navy!"

YOU couldn't ask for a greater thrill than that which a fellow gets when he comes back home wearing a trim Navy uniform. The folks crowd around. They all want to know where you've been, what you've done. And man, do you have stories to tell!

GREATEST LIFE IN THE WORLD

You're proud. And you should be. For you've been leading the greatest life in the world. And it's a thrill to tell about it, too. A thrill to see the admiration in the eyes of the One and Only Girl as you tell about the first time you steered a Destroyer. Or handled a P.T. Boat at more than 45 miles per hour. Or stepped out in front of your shipmates to receive your first promotion.



And with that promotion came an increase in pay. And there were more to come. Second Class. First Class. And then Chief Petty Officer. Many might even go to Annapolis. Or to Pensacola with the flying cadets!

Exciting? You bet, and fun too. Something doing all the time. Real he-man's stuff. Boxing. Baseball. Football. Swimming. AND MOVIES... previews, too!

LOOK WHAT THE U. S. NAVY AND NAVAL RESERVE OFFER YOU

FREE TRAINING worth $1500. Nearly 50 trades and vocations to choose from.

GOOD PAY with regular increases. You may earn up to $126 a month.

EACH YEAR you are entitled to a generous vacation period, with full pay.

GOOD FOOD and plenty of it.

FREE CLOTHING. A complete outfit of clothing when you first enlist. (Over $100 worth.)

FREE MEDICAL CARE, including regular dental attention.

FINEST SPORTS and entertainment any man could ask for.

TRAVEL, ADVENTURE, THRILLS—You can't beat the Navy for them!

BECOME AN OFFICER. Many can work for an appointment to the Naval Academy or the Annapolis of the Air at Pensacola.

FUTURE SUCCESS. It's easy for Navy trained men to get good-paying jobs in civil life.

LIBERAL RETIREMENT-PAY for regular Navy men.

FREE TRAINING WORTH $1500

And all this time you're taking care of your future! The Navy said, "Pick a trade—we can make you an expert." And they gave you nearly 50 skilled trades and vocations to choose from: Radio expert, machinist, welder, aviation mechanic, dental technician, electrician—to mention a few.

Yes, training that would be worth $1500 to you in one year's time. Training that will assure you of a well-paid job in civil life. Yet you get paid while learning—get your keep and a complete outfit of clothing free.

Where else in the world are there such opportunities for thrill, for fun, for a future as in Uncle Sam's Navy?

WEAR THIS BADGE OF HONOR! If after reading the free booklet you decide to apply for a place in the Navy, you will receive this smart lapel-emblem. It is a badge of honor you will be proud to wear.

ENROLL IN THE NAVAL RESERVE ... BE RELEASED AFTER THE EMERGENCY

The Secretary of the Navy has announced:—"All men now enlisting in the Naval Reserve will be retained on active Navy duty throughout the period of the national emergency, but they will be released to inactive duty as soon after the emergency as their services can be spared, regardless of the length of time remaining in their enlistment."

Remember—the regular Navy and Naval Reserve offer you the same travel, training, promotions, pay increases. Physical requirements in the Naval Reserve are more liberal.
